5 Convicted In Looting Of $100,000 From Union

Faust Moreschi, Other Officers Of Hod Carriers Face 2 Years, Fine

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

The five remaining defendants in the $100,000 labor union looting plot case were convicted of criminal conspiracy by a District Court jury late yesterday.

The funds were embezzled from International Hod Carriers and Building Laborers Union (AFL) locals here, at Quantico, Va., and La Plata, Md., with a membership of 10,000.

The convicted men are:

Faust Moreschi, former secretary-treasurer of the union District Council here; Joseph Speed, former vice president of the District Council; George Morgan, former business agent and financial secretary of Local 74; Evans H. Hamilton, former secretary of Local 74, and Isaac Weiner, a construction and real estate man.

Justice Alexander Holtzoff released the defendants under $1500 bond pending appeal moves. They face penalties of up to two years in jail and $10,000 fines each.

The jury deliberated two hours before returning the verdict at 5:10 p. m., which was delivered by Benjamin C. Pope, foreman.

According to the charge, the defendants in 1941-1942 conspired to rob the treasuries of various locals here.

Former United States Attorney Leo A. Rover was drafted out of private law practice and made a special prosecutor to try the case.

He presented evidence that union funds were used to buy thousands of dollars worth of whisky, buy a cafe, build workers' barracks on war projects and repair homes of union officials. Part of the money came, it was alleged, from the civilian defense fund of the union during the war.

The man the Government charges was the kingpin in the conspiracy is Larry Kelly, onetime boss of two locals of the union. He is missing and reported to have died aboard a merchant marine vessel in the South Pacific.

The case, which dragged on for several weeks, began badly for the Government. Three International Union officials were acquitted in the beginning upon direction of Justice Holtzoff. They are Joseph V. Moreschi, international president, and father of Faust Moreschi; Achilles Persion, secretary treasurer of the International, and John Garvey, international organizer. A severance was granted for Kelly, and the Government voluntarily dismissed the charges against Kelly's wife, Mrs. Dorothy Bond Kelly.

At the conclusion of the Government's case, Justice Holtzoff ruled there was insufficient evidence to convict George W. Plummer, former president of Local 74.

Two others in the indictment died before trial. They were Matthias Kiesgen, clerk in the District council, and John Longo, Kelly's one-time partner in the El Patio restaurant here.

Great Lakes Tankers Tied Up by Strikes

Chicago, May 14 (U.P.).—Tankers of two Great Lakes shipping companies were struck today, and the National Maritime Union (CIO) said the walkout would extend to three more firms.

Workers struck because five companies "refused to extend last year's contract until a new one could be negotiated," union spokesmen said. Two of the tankers struck were ships of Standard Oil Co., and two belonged to Cleveland Tanker Co. All were tied up at East Chicago.

Mortimer Snerd Traveling To Golf Meet on Pig Train

The Washington Post

"THIS IS A NICE SHANTY," reports Charlie McCarthy (center) to Edgar Bergen at the Hotel Statler. McCarthy, the lumber king, who arrived yesterday for the National Celebrities Golf Tournament, brought Bergen along for laughs. Mortimer Snerd, the democratic dummy who knows less about politics than a hawg does about Sunday, is en route to Washington on a pig train.

Mr. Snerd found a place on a livestock train after a pig escaped and left a vacancy.

"He's in no hurry and time means nothing to him," Bergen explained.

This was the word from Edgar Bergen yesterday. Bergen, an employe of Charles McCarthy, the well known lumber king, was in training on hors d'oeuvres in the Statler Hotel's Presidential Suite for the National Celebrities Golf Tournament at Columbia Country Club Sunday.

Bergen shoots in the 100s. McCarthy isn't old enough for golf.

With no apologies for what could be misinterpreted as rank favoritism, Bergen told an afternoon press conference that McCarthy made the trip from the West Coast with him by plane.

They will appear at the golf tournament, presented under auspices of The Washington Post in support of Attorney General Tom Clark's efforts on youth opportunity. Their Sunday night radio show will be broadcast from Uline Arena, 3d and M sts., ne., teaming with Bing Crosby as guest star.

There is no jealousy between McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd, Bergen confided.

"Mortimer hates no one," he said. "I envy him—he's the ordinary man. He will live to pleasant old age, never having the 101 breakdowns that plague the human race. On the other hand, Charlie is superior and he knows it."

Stocks Surge Up $1 to $7 in Broad Trading

Issues Represented Set Exchange Record; 3,840,000 Shares Sold

By C. Norman Stabler

New York, May 14 (NYHT).—The broadest market in the history of the New York Stock Exchange and the largest volume of trading in nearly eight years developed in Wall Street today when a definite final confirmation of the bull market of 1947-'48 was given, to the accompaniment of new records.

The low, from which the present rise started, occurred nearly a year ago, on May 19, 1947, but it was not until yesterday, according to technical followers of market ways, that all signals combined to announce the definite upward trend.

Gains of one to seven points peppered the entire list. The tape carried quotations on 1151 individual stocks, the most the Stock Exchange had ever recorded in a single session. Orders poured in from all sections of the country and the world as the former resistance level was overcome.

Trading on the big board jumped to 3,840,000 shares, the most since May 21, 1940. The high-speed ticker facilities of the exchange were unable to keep pace with transactions.

The average gain of 100 representative stocks was 1.23 points, to the best level since August 30, 1946.

All stocks in the day's list of the 15 most active issues advanced with the single exception of Commonwealth & Southern, which closed unchanged at 3¼. Leaders in this group included Canadian Pacific, Tri-Continental Corp., New York Central, Hudson Motor Car, Republic Steel and United States Steel, the latter up 2¼ and the others more than a point.

Less active but more volatile leaders, with their gains: Allied Chemical, 3; American Distilling, 2¼; American Woolen, 2; Santé Fe, 3⅝; Rock Island, 2; Chrysler, 2; Corn Products, 2 5/8; Delaware & Hudson, 3⅛; Du Pont, 4; General Motors, 2¼; Goodrich, 2; Goodyear, 2; Hercules Powder, 3¾; International Nickel, 2⅛; International Paper, 2; Kansas City Southern, 3¼; Montgomery Ward, 3⅜; Scott Paper, 2; Seaboard Air Line, 2¼; Simmons, 3¼; Skelly Oil, 3½; Union Carbide, 4, and Union Pacific, 7. Abraham & Straus, an inactive stock, soared 10 on odd-lot transactions.

Golf Tourney Tickets Go to $3 Tomorrow

Today is the last day that tickets for the National Celebrities Golf Tournament may be purchased for $2. Tomorrow they sell for $3 and will be available only at Columbia Country Club, where the tournament will be played.

Tickets for Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy NBC (WRC) broadcast at Uline Arena Sunday night may be bought at Uline Arena, Fairway Sports Shop and The Washington Post lobby. Mystery Since August

Colorado Convict Confesses Slaying of Alexandria Couple

A 19-year-old Colorado convict yesterday confessed the hitchhike slaying of Robert May, scion of a wealthy Alexandria, Va., family and his wife in Nebraska last August.

McClelland

Imprisoned on a worthless check charge, Charles McClelland, a carnival roustabout, had spent much time in the prison hospital suffering from mental depression.

"I've been sleeping with it and walking with it," Warden Roy Best quoted him. "I've got to get it off my chest."

May was the son of Beverly C. May, general manager of the Alexandria, Barcroft and Washington bus lines. With his young wife, he was returning to Alexandria from a Colorado visit last August.

Their bodies were found alongside a Nebraska highway west of Omaha, shot to death. Their blood-stained car was found in an Omaha parking lot three hours later.

During the ensuing weeks numerous suspects were picked up, then released.

In an Associated Press dispatch from Canon City, Colo., Warden Best said the youthful prisoner gave this account of the slaying:

The Mays picked him up near Brandon, Nebr., 8 miles east of the Colorado-Nebraska line. He rode in the rear seat for a time, finally drew a pistol and shot them both in the back. He disposed of the bodies at the roadside near Boys' Town, Nebr., after taking some $300 in cash and traveler's checks from them. Then he drove the car into Omaha.

At the Omaha suburbs, he caught a streetcar into the city,

Reelection Is Predicted By Truman

Tears Into GOP In Speech Before Young Democrats; 500 Cheer Loudly

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman made a scornful attack on the Republican Party by name last night, and calmly predicted that he would remain in the White House for another four years.

Talking off the cuff at the National Young Democratic Dinner in the Mayflower, Mr. Truman scoffed at calamity howlers and said:

"I want to say to you at this time that during the next four years there will be a Democrat in the White House and you are looking at him."

Bring Yell of Delight

Some 500 Young Democrats interrupted Mr. Truman with a delighted yell. They applauded again several times as he tore into the Republican Party and accused it of obstructionist tactics, of throwing bricks and mud at the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, of bungling the budget, of putting through "phony" savings, of stealing Democratic platform planks and saying "Me too," and of being a party of boom and bust.

The extemporaneous speech, delivered with seeming ease and confidence, was apparently the forerunner of many that Mr. Truman will make when he starts on a cross-country tour early next month.

It was a wholly partisan speech up to the point where he began talking about foreign policy.

"That (foreign policy) is not a political issue," he said, "and I pray God that it never will become a political issue."

Lauds Roosevelt

United States Senator J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, spoke ahead of the Chief Executive and told the assemblage the United States had just recognized the new Jewish state in Palestine.

"God bless you for that," said McGrath, looking down at Mr. Truman.

The President, after reviewing the great deeds of Jefferson, Jackson, Cleveland and Wilson, pictured the country at the outset of the Republican era that began with Harding.

"And then came normalcy," he said. "Twelve years of Republican special privilege rule. Then it became necessary to meet the greatest financial crisis this country ever faced.

"We came forth with the greatest leader of all time—Franklin Delano Roosevelt. He met that depression and conquered it.

"Then the world was faced with the greatest of all crises—the greatest in all history. In 1939 Franklin Roosevelt met the crisis of the World War and he met it in such a way that we have established a world for the welfare of mankind."

He said the United Nations was

Jews Set Up Own Nation, Gird for Fight

BULLETIN

New York, May 14 (U.P.).—A Jewish broadcast from Tel Aviv tonight said that the city was "being bombed by hostile planes," the American Broadcasting Co. here reported. The broadcast was carried over the ABC network.

The Columbia Broadcasting System said the raid was revealed by Premier David Ben Gurion, who made the first address from Tel Aviv.

CBS said the "explosion of bombs" could be heard in the background.

Tel Aviv, Israel (Saturday), May 15 (U.P.).—After 2000 years as wanderers over the face of the earth the Jews took sovereignty over their own state of Israel today and girded to fight the Arab world in its defense.

Proclaimed at 4 p. m. yesterday, the new nation entered officially into being at midnight when the British Palestine mandate expired.

Egypt announced at 12:10 a. m. today that its troops had been ordered to enter Palestine. Armies of the other Arab nations were poised on the frontiers as Israel joined the world community.

There was heavy fighting in Jerusalem, where troops of the new Jewish army were reported to have seized effective control of the heart of the city.

It was reported also that Jews had captured Acre, the northern seaport earmarked for the Arabs under a United Nations partition plan.

There was fighting in other areas too, from Dan in the north to Beersheba in the south.

Thirty years of British rule ended this morning. Although the British Palestine mandate did not end

Recognition Of Israel Stuns U. N. Delegates

By Francis W. Carpenter

New York, May 14 (AP).—President Truman's surprise recognition of the new Jewish state stunned United Nations Assembly delegates tonight. Scenes of confusion and expressions of astonishment followed.

The proclamation by Mr. Truman was attacked immediately by the Arab bloc in the Assembly with cries of "mockery" and "fake." The Arabs said they had been duped.

The Jews were jubilant.

The United States delegates were caught flat-footed. They sat red-faced through some of the harshest words ever directed toward them by fellow delegates.

Guatemala Second to Act

Guatemala became the second nation to recognize the Jewish state. Dr. Jorge Garcia Granados, Guatemalan delegate who has championed partition for months, read a communication from his government recognizing Israel.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister, told the Assembly that the "Jewish state is in existence." He thus put Russia on record as acknowledging the Jewish proclamation but he did not at this time announce formal diplomatic recognition.

The Assembly, meanwhile approved appointment of a special U. N. peace missioner for Palestine. This completed the main business of the extraordinary session on Palestine. The vote was 31 to 7, with 16 nations abstaining and four absent.

The mediator will be selected by a majority vote of the five major powers.

Dr. Jose Arce of Argentina, assembly president, ended the special session at 7:32 p. m. after telling the delegates: "we have done what we could" to solve the Palestine problem. He pleaded for peace in Palestine.

Mahmoud Bey Fawzi, Egypt's chief delegate, shouted to the Assembly that under the changed circumstances "it is an unworthy mockery" for the United Nations to continue talking now about a U. N. peace agent for Palestine, as proposed by the United States.

Fawzi declared the whole work of the Assembly in the past four

Egypt Orders Armed Forces Into Palestine

BULLETIN

Ammam, Trans-Jordan (Saturday), May 15 (U.P.).—Arab armies moved from Trans-Jordan at 12:01 a. m. today to "liberate the Holy Land from Zionism," an official communique announced.

Cairo, May 14 (AP).—The Egyptian government announced tonight it had ordered its armed forces to enter Palestine. A newspaper report said two columns of regular Egyptian forces crossed into the Holy Land at dawn today.

Premier Mahmoud Fahmy Nokrashy Pasha said the invasion was ordered to "restore security and order" in Palestine and end "the massacres perpetrated by terrorist Zionist gangs."

Sheik Mamoun al Shinawi, rector of 1000-year-old Alazhar University and spiritual leader of Moslems throughout the world, called today for a Jihad (holy war) against the Jews of the new state of Israel.

"The decisive hour has come," Sheik Shinawi said in a radio address.

"Come to war and struggle for the sake of Allah.

"Today is your day," the rector told the Moslems. "The whole world is watching you. Unless you rise to defend your rights, unless you fight your enemy and are ready to die for Allah and your countries, humiliation will be your lot.

"The reward of heaven is obtained under the shadow of swords," he said.

Other Troops Ready

Although there was no confirmation from other quarters, a correspondent for the newspaper Al Assas, organ of Nokrashy Pasha's party, said the Egyptian troops crossed the border into Palestine nearly 24 hours before the end of the British mandate and the birth of the Jewish state.

Syrian and Lebanese troops also are poised on the northern border of the Holy Land apparently awaiting an invasion zero hour expected shortly after midnight, a Damascus dispatch said.

(Haganah, the Jewish army, again reported that Syrian armored forces already were inside Palestine on the north, attacking Dan.)

Earlier accounts from Syria said troops of Iraq and Trans-Jordan were moving up to Palestine's west-

Truman Acts Soon After New Nation Is Created

British Terminate Palestine Mandate; Efforts for Truce To Be Continued

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

The United States last night recognized the new state of Israel set up by the Zionists in Palestine.

President Truman announced the recognition only 20 minutes after the 26-year-old British mandate had expired and the Jewish state had come into being.

"This Government has been informed that a Jewish state has been proclaimed in Palestine," he said, "and recognition has been requested by the provisional government thereof. The United States recognizes the provisional government as the de facto authority of the new state of Israel."

To Continue Truce Efforts

At the same time, White House Secretary Charles G. Ross said the United States would go on trying to bring about a truce between Jews and Arabs in Palestine.

"We hope," he told reporters, "that the new Jewish state will join with the Security Council Truce Commission in redoubled efforts to bring about an end to the fighting which has been, throughout the United Nations consideration of Palestine, a principal objective of this Government."

So the partition of Palestine became a fact, not by a United Nations decision but by the Zionists' own efforts, with the blessing and backing of the United States.

A full-fledged Jewish nation now occupies the Jerusalem area and the part of Palestine allotted to the Jews by a majority of the U. N.'s Palestine Commission last spring.

Is Political Vacuum

In the Arab portion, however, there exists a political vacuum, with nothing but a shadowy Arab administration in charge of it. It was uncertain whether this relatively poor and unproductive area would form its own government or whether it would be occupied by Palestine's neighboring Arab states.

The United States considered also recognizing the neighboring Arab kingdom of Trans-Jordan, but decided not to do so for fear of still further complicating American relations with the other Arab countries.

Looking into the future, officials here were less fearful of a large-scale war in Palestine than they were a few weeks ago. The reasons were, firstly, the military strength and skill of the Palestine Jews, trained for the most part in the British army; and secondly, the military weakness and disunity of the Arab League countries.

Perhaps by Agreement

Ultimately, it was thought here, King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan might occupy the Arab portions of Palestine with his little British-trained army, perhaps by agreement with the Jews. It was reported in Washington last night that Glubb Pasha, Abdullah's British adviser, was conducting secret negotiations last week with the Haganah, the Zionist army.

But Washington was still fearful of minor brushes along the Jewish state's borders. For the

After Heart Attack

Father Flanagan, Founder Of Boys' Town, Dies in Berlin

Berlin, Saturday, May 15 (UP).—Father Edward J. Flanagan, 61, the Nebraska priest who founded Boys' Town, Nebr., with a borrowed $90 and faith that there is no such thing as a bad boy, died today of a heart attack at an Army station hospital.

The tall, amiable priest died shortly before 1 a. m. He had collapsed of a heart attack Thursday night at a dinner party. His aide immediately called an Army doctor and an ambulance. Father Flanagan was taken to the station hospital in a serious condition.

The Army said Father Flanagan died of a coronary occlusion. With him when he died were Patrick Norton, his assistant at Boys Town. Patrick J. Moriarty, Shakotee, Minn., the European command's top German youth organizer, and several doctors and nurses.

Father Flanagan was stricken while spreading his gospel of kindness to misled youth in Germany. He arrived here May 9 to make a two-week study of conditions among young people in the American zone of Germany.

The priest started on his road to fame on December 10, 1917, when he established "Father Flanagan's Boys' Home" in a broken-down building in a rundown section of Omaha, Nebr.

Born July 13, 1886, in Roscommon, Ireland, Father Flanagan was educated in the United States, Austria and Italy. He was ordained in the Catholic priesthood in 1912, by training them in their youth.

Third Is Unaccounted For

2 Trapped Men Alive in Mine, Talk to Worker 12 Feet Away

Shamokin, Pa., May 14 (U.P.).—Two of three men, entombed for more than 53 hours in a flooded mine, are definitely alive, rescue workers reported tonight. The third man was unaccounted for.

A rescue worker approached to within 12 feet of the two men, but a water barrier prevented immediate rescue. Plans were made to reduce the depth of the water to permit a rubber raft to clear the ceiling of the inundated tunnel 150 feet below the surface.

The rescue worker, Peter Lazarski, said the two men identified themselves as Arthur Peter Gordon, 32, and Edward Heck, 41. He said they told him they were "all right."

"When are we going to get out of here?" Lazarski reported the two men shouted in the inky darkness. "Shall we try to swim through it?"

But Lazarski cautioned them to wait because the depth of the water was about 10 feet and the ceiling jutted into the water at certain points. He said the men were perched in a slant in the gangway above the water line.

Lazarski got to within several feet of the men by lying flat on a raft and floating down the gangway.

He said Gordon and Heck were unable to explain what happened to the third man, Charles Bashore, 42, when the mine wall broke late Wednesday, flooding the gangway in which they were drilling.

Word that two of the men were alive came several hours after indistinguishable shouts were heard by rescue squads probing neighboring mine shafts.

The rescue crews were able to get into the tunnel and dig for the first time. A new pump, capable of drawing out 240 gallons a minute, had lowered the water level to a point that permitted the rescuers to enter the gangway leading to side chambers in one of which the men were entombed.

Jews Unfurl Flag of David Here On Proclamation of New State

A new flag was broken out in Washington's Embassy Row last night—the Star of David.

As the new state of Israel was proclaimed in Palestine at 6:01 p. m. (E. D. T.) some 300 Washington Jews staged a wildly jubilant flag-raising at the local office of the Jewish Agency, 2210 Massachusetts ave., nw.

Epstein

Eight-year-old Oren Zinder, Palestinian native living at Parkfairfax, Va., hoisted out the blue and white flag amid shouts of "Mazeltov" (good luck) and the singing of the Jewish and American national anthems.

"I never thought I'd live to see this day," said 63-year-old Dr. Harry Projector, 3649 Veazey st. nw., a Zionist who had fought 50 years, he said, for the establishment of a Jewish state.

Rabbi Gives Benediction

The Massachusetts ave. building is the official American office of Palestine's Jewish Agency, the foreign affairs branch of the new government. The new state of Israel was proclaimed in Tel-Aviv yesterday as the British ended their 25-year mandate over the Holy Land. Israel covers the area defined by the United Nations partition resolution of last November 29.

Eliahu Epstein, director of the Washington office—who now is expected to become Israel's representative in the United States—declared during the ceremony:

"It is the purpose of the state of Israel to become a democratic, peace-loving and law-abiding member of the family of nations."

Pronouncing the benediction over the new state and its American "embassy," Rabbi Zemach Green of the Ohev Sholom Congregation, 500 I st. nw., termed the rebirth of Israel a "miracle born in agony and self-sacrifice."

As the news arrived that President Truman had just recognized the de factor government of Israel, men, women and children crowded inside and in front of the building, cheered and hugged each other.

Boys and girls of Habonim, the Labor-Zionist youth organization, danced the Palestinian Hora and sank folk songs on the lawn.

Among the guests at the ceremony were Representatives Sol Bloom (D., N. Y.), Emanuel Celler (D., N. Y.) and Jacob K. Javits (R., N. Y.).

Within Washington's Jewish ranks, however, there were those who met the proclamation of the new state with anything but jubilation.

The American Council for Judaism declared its "complete independence and separation" from Israel.

"We reaffirm our belief that, in a modern world, a people cannot be both a universal religion and a nation."

Other comments from leading Washington Jews:

Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld of the Washington Hebrew Congregation: "It is a just step to assure the security and future of the Jewish haven of refuge. Out of it can grow peace in the Arab world and shelter for the homeless of Israel."

Joseph Cherner, automobile dealer and president of the Washington branch, Zionist Organization of America: "We waited 2000 years for this."

Rabbi Solomon H. Metz, Adas Israel Congregation, 600 I st. nw.: "It's the greatest miracle of the ages. It means the emancipation of the Middle East from the rule of feudalism, ignorance and oppression."

Frank Goldman, president of B'Nai B'rith, in a letter to President Truman urging recognition of Israel: "Israel is the fruit of one of the most significant accomplishments of United Nations cooperation . . . Like the 13 colonies, Israel emerges stronger and purer because of its sacrifice of life and blood."

ern frontier. However, there was no sign of military preparation in Amman, the capital of Trans-Jordan's King Abdullah, who has announced his leadership of the threatened invasion of the Holy Land.

Irregular volunteers from the various Arab countries already are fighting inside Palestine. The main strength of that force now is engaging the Jews at Bab el Wad, a strategic gorge controlling the Jerusalem - Tel Aviv highway.

Al Assas said its correspondent with the Egyptian army reported that both columns pushed into the Holy Land from arid Sinai Peninsula. One entered from the border town of Rafa near the coast and the other from El Auja, 30 miles to the southwest.

Gen. Ahmed Mohamed al Mawowee Bey is in command of the Egyptian forces, Al Assas said.

Many units of Egypt's regular army have been reported massed in Sinai, on the southern frontier of Palestine, awaiting orders. Estimates of their number have ranged from 6000 to 16,000.

King Farouk decreed martial law in Egypt effective the first minute after midnight. The decree appointed Nokrashy Pasha as military governor.

A state of emergency has been declared in Syria. The Syrian Parliament is expected to declare martial law later and appoint Premier Jamil Mardam Bey as military governor.

Lebanon also declared a state of emergency.

The Premier ordered censorship throughout Egypt and her territorial waters on "messages, photos, parcels, cables and radio broadcasts, incoming as well as outgoing," and on plays, movies and voice recordings.

Another order provides that the crews of all vessels and planes shall submit to instructions of the general censor, Abdel Rahman Ammar Bey, Undersecretary of the Interior Ministry.

Police began a roundup of Jews and others who they said are considered as "dangerous elements" and as suspected Zionist propagandists. A concentration camp in Abbassia, a suburb of Cairo, was prepared for those detained.

Egyptian troops are widely expected to occupy southern Palestine to a line north of Beersheba and Gaza which would put them around 15 small Jewish settlements.

Syrian armor and infantry moved southward from Saida on the Lebanese coast after traversing the outskirts of Beirut, the Damascus dispatch said. Lebanese army units were deployed all along the Palestine frontier from Merpoyoun to Naqura on the Mediterranean coast.

All Troops to Be Out By Aug. 1, Commons Told

London, May 14 (U.P.).—A government spokesman told the Commons today that all British troops will be out of Palestine by August 1.

Defense Minister A. V. Alexander said reinforcements were sent in recently only to protect the withdrawal of troops already there.

Authoritative sources said Britain would not recognize the Jewish state "for quite awhile." Britain, it was understood, wants to see how the government behaves towards British property and withdrawing British forces, and what its relations with the Arabs will be.

Carnage Reign Marks British Mandate End

Jerusalem, May 14 (NYHT.).—Britain surrendered its mandate over Palestine in the midst of carnage and violence that testified to the failure of a 24-year mission.

As dawn broke over embattled Jerusalem today, the Union Jack was lowered for the last time from the King David Hotel. While bagpipes skirled and while Jewish and Arab snipers dueled, the British standard was replaced by the Red Cross flag, lone symbol of neutrality in a city at war.

The ceremony was repeated soon afterward at Government House, where Sir Alan Gordon Cunningham, high commissioner of Palestine, left his residence without farewell from either Arab or Jew. A guard of honor from the Highland Light Infantry greeted the high commissioner as he stepped into his bullet-proof Daimler for a final journey through Jerusalem.

At Kalandia Airport, Sir Alan boarded a Royal Air Force transport for Haifa and a waiting British cruiser.

By nightfall every British government official and most of the British troops had departed the Holy City.

Sir Alan made a final effort to placate the Jews and Arabs in a radio address preceding his departure. He candidly confessed British errors, but appealed to both factions to settle their differences before war destroyed the Holy Land.

The high commissioner, upon arriving in Haifa, was escorted to the dock, where a 17-gun salute awaited him. He was piped aboard the cruiser Euryalis and remained there until it sailed for England at midnight.

weeks "was a mere fake." He charged "something behind the scenes was being done . . . This was not only by-passing."

"The hope of humanity is being shamelessly 'betrayed,'" Fawzi continued. "This is a somber note but it is nothing to what is being done to kill this organization." He said United Nations standards are "being dragged down—very much down."

Dr. Guillermo Belt, Cuban Ambassador to Washington and a consistent foe of the partition of Palestine, declared that the United Nations has become "a very elegant international club only."

He told the delegates that "it develops the representatives of the Soviet Union and Poland are better informed about events in Washington than the United States delegation.

Several delegates laughed at that remark.

Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate, was not in the chamber when the blast against the President's recognition was made. But he issued the following statement after checking up on news agency reports of the proclamation:

"The recognition by the President of the provisional government as the de facto authority of the new Jewish state is the practical step to be taken in the present development of the difficult question of Palestine."

Jews Set Up State, Prepare for Fight

until midnight, Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, British high commissioner, boarded ship at Haifa at 8 a. m.

At 4 p. m., in the three-story Tel Aviv museum in Rothschild Boulevard, Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion proclaimed the new state of Israel to an audience of 400 men and women who wept in happiness.

Some of them had attended the first Zionist congress in Switzerland 50 years ago. Some had suffered in Russian pogroms. Some bore the scars of Nazi lashings, or the shameful tatoo marks of internment camps. Some had come to Israel from the United States and other free countries to be citizens of their own new country.

"To Be Called Israel"

". . . We, the members of the National Council, representatives of the Jewish people of Palestine and the Zionist movement of the world, met together in solemn assembly today, the day of termination of the British mandate over Palestine, by virtue of the natural historic right of the Jewish people and of the resolution of the General Assembly of the United Nations, hereby proclaim the establishment of a Jewish state in Palestine, to be called Israel," the proclamation said.

"We hereby declare that as from the termination of the mandate at midnight this night of the 14th to 15th of May, 1948, and until the setting up of duly elected bodies of state in accordance with a constitution to be drawn up by a constituent assembly not later than the 1st day of October, 1948, the present National Council shall act as a provisional state council and its executive organ—the national administration—shall constitute the provisional government of the state of Israel."

The Associated Press said Israel's government offered "full and equal citizenship" to Arabs living in the Jewish state and said it wanted peace with all neighboring countries. "The state of Israel," the proclamation said, "is ready to contribute its full share to peaceful progress and the reconstitution of the Middle East."

Ben-Gurion announced Zwi Scharf would be chief secretary of the provisional government.

To Fill Two Posts

Ben-Gurion himself, 60-year-old Polish Jew, will serve as both Premier and War Minister.

Moshe Shertok will serve as Foreign Minister.

There was 1 Communist among the 37 members of the new governmental general council, which had charge of the historic ceremony. He is Meir Wilner, 30, leader of the Palestine Communist Party. He was the only member who was not cheered when he took his seat and the only one with whom Ben-Gurion did not shake hands.

Even before the independence proclamatoin was read Tel Aviv was gay to the point of hysteria. The blue and white-striped Jewish flag, with the gold Star of David emblazoned on it, seemed almost to cover the buildings. Men and women sang, wept, prayed.

The wrinkle-faced woman who cleans my hotel room, and who still finds it easier to go barefoot than to wear shoes, said to me:

"This is the coming of the Messiah for which I set out from Yemen 25 years ago."

"This is the first time in my life I have been happy," said the girl who served my breakfast. On her right arm is a blue concentration camp number.

The movies and cafes were filled from early morning with joyous crowds. In the music shops were such war songs as "Haganah Boy" and "Do You Remember."

Through the crowded streets sped truckloads of troops, the Haganah militiamen who now are the army of the Jewish state.

They were on their way to potential war fronts, or to areas where battles already had begun.

Army Commander In Chief Israel Galilee, in his first order of the day, said:

"The enemy is threatening invasion. We are ready on all fronts. But the public must give its full support. Air raid shelters should be made ready without delay. I will not allow any large public gatherings in the streets."

A general call for "anyone who can bear arms" to defend the new state brought hundreds of recruits to the colors.

There were two pieces of bad news for the Jews amid the rejoicing.

The Haganah radio at Kfar Etzion, south of Jerusalem, where Arabs had been attacking for two days, went dead. It was feared that about one third of the several hundred Jews in the settlement were casualties.

Another report was tha Arabs had firm control of Lathroun, west of Bab el Wad on the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway.

But there was much good news for the Jews. The last British forces moved out of Jaffa, the Arab sister city of Tel Aviv, to the skirk of bagpipes.

The Irgun Zvai Leumi organization asserted it had taken five Arab villages in the northern triangle which the U. N. partition plan earmarked for Arabs.

A wireless bulletin from the Jewish army command in northern Palestine said the ancient Acre, with its crusaders' castle, had been taken by picked Haganah men. Acre is in the area alloted to Arabs.

(Arab sources in Beirut said that Jews also had taken two villages near Nahariya, up the coast in the Arab area.)

Haganah Force May Total 70,000

With its entire fighting forces and auxiliaries alerted for action, the Haganah army of the new Jewish state of Israel has a fighting force of 60,000 to 70,000 facing the Arabs, according to Jewish Agency figures.

Official Arab sources in Trans-Jordan have said the Arab nations will send in at least 30,000 regular troops against the Jews. There are some 3000 members of the Trans-Jordan Arab Legion already inside Palestine, where they had aided the British on police duty. In addition an undisclosed number of Arab Yarmuk volunteers under Fawzi Al Kaugji are in the Holy Land.

Jewish State Recognized present, the United States is expected to maintain the arms embargo, which applies not only to Palestine but to the entire Middle East.

Recognition of the Jewish state was announced with lightning speed and suddenness. An incidental reason for the speed—but only an incidental one—was to prevent Soviet Russia from becoming the first great power to recognize the new state.

The President, however, had made up his mind almost two weeks ago to recognize quickly if the floundering U. N. failed to reach a decision, and if the Zionists proclaimed their nation. He confided his plans to Judge Samuel I. Rosenman of New York, who visited him 10 days ago.

His plans were known, of course, to Secretary Marshall, but not to rank-and-file officials of the State Department and of the American delegation to the United Nations. Only a few hours before the White House announcement, the American delegation at Lake Success, N. Y., was making a vain attempt—lost for lack of a two-thirds majority—to set up a special U. N. regime in Jerusalem.

Marshall had tried until a few days ago to dissuade both Jews and Arabs in Palestine from hurrying to proclaim separate states. He wrote to Provisional Premier David Ben-Gurion advising him to postpone the proclamation, but his advice was ignored.

The recognition announcement was worded so that the new state is eligible to apply for membership in the U. N. The new government is recognized "de facto"—that is, provisionally—because in the eyes of international law, it has not yet been legally constituted.

But in the wording of the Truman announcement there was nothing "de facto" about the description of the state itself. Many other members of the U. N. are expected to recognize it spon.

New Israel's Declaration of Independence

Tel Aviv, Palestine, May 14 (AP). The text of the declaration of independence of the Jewish state:

THE land of Israel was the birthplace of the Jewish people. Here their spiritual, religious and national identity was formed. Here they achieved independence and created a culture of national and universal significance. Here they wrote and gave the Bible to the world.

Exiled from Palestine, the Jewish people remained faithful to it in all the countries of their dispersion, never ceasing to pray and hope for their return and restoration of their ational freedom.

Impelled by this historic association, Jews strove throughout the centuries to go back to the land of their fathers and regain statehood. In recent decades they returned in their masses. They reclaimed a wilderness, revived their language, built cities and villages, and established a vigorous and ever growing community, with its own economic and cultural life. They sought peace, yet were ever prepared to defend themselves. They brought blessings of progress to all inhabitants of the country.

In the year 1897 the first Zionist congress, inspired by Theodore Herzl's vision of a Jewish state, proclaimed the right of the Jewish people to a national revival in their own country.

This right was acknowledged by the Balfour declaration of November 2, 1917, and reaffirmed by the mandate of the League of Nations, which gave explicit international recognition to the historic connection of the Jewish people with Palestine and their right to reconstitute their national home.

The Nazi holocaust which engulfed millions of Jews in Europe, proved anew the urgency of the reestablishment of the Jewish state, which would solve the problem of Jewish homelessness by opening the gates to all Jews and lifting the Jewish people to equality in the family of nations.

Survivors of the European catastrophe as well as Jews from other lands, claiming their right to a life of dignity, freedom and labor, and undeterred by hazards, hardships and obstacles, have tried unceasingly to enter Palestine.

IN THE Second World War, the Jewish people in Palestine made a full contribution in the struggle or freedom-loving nations against the Nazi evil. The sacrifices of their soldiers and efforts of their workers gained them title to rank with the people who founded the United Nations. On November 29, 1947, the General Assembly of United Nations adopted a resolution for reestablishment of an independent Jewish state in Palestine and called upon inhabitants of the country to take such steps as may be necessary on their part to put the plan into effect.

This recognition by the United Nations of the right of the Jewish people to establish their independent state may not be revoked. It is, moreover, the self-evident right of the Jewish people to be a nation, as all other nations, in its own sovereign state.

Accordingly we, the members of National Council representing the Jewish people in Palestine and the Zionist movement in the world, met together in solemn assembly by virtue of the natural and historic right of Jewish people and of resolution of General Assembly of United Nations, Hereby proclaim the establishment of the Jewish state in Palestine, to be called Israel.

We hearby declare that as from the termination of the mandate at midnight this night of the fourteenth to fifteenth of May, 1948, and until the setting up of duly elected bodies of the state in accordance with a constitution to be drawn up by a constituent assembly not later than the first day of October, 1948, the present national council shall act as the provisional state council, and its executive organ, the national administration, shall constitute the provisional government of the state of Isreal.

THE state of Isreal will promote the development of the country for the benefit of all its inhabitants; will be based on precepts of liberty, justice and peace taught by the Hebrew prophets; will uphold the full social and political equality of all its citizens without distinction of race, creed or sex; will guarantee full freedom of conscience, worship, education and culture; will safeguard the sanctity and inviolability of shrines and holy places of all religions, and will dedicate itself to the principles of the Charter of the United Nations.

The state of Israel will be ready to cooperate with the organs and representatives of the United Nations in the implementations of the resolution of November 29, 1947, and will take steps to bring about an economic union over the whole of Palestine.

We appeal to the United Nations to assist the Jewish people in the building of its state and admit Israel into the family of nations.

In the midst of wanton aggression we call upon the Arab inhabitants of the state of Israel to return to the ways of peace and play their part in the development of the state, with full and equal citizenship and due representation in all its bodies and institutions, provisional or permanent.

We offer peace and amity to all neighboring states and their peoples, and invite them to cooperate with the independent Jewish nation for the common good of all. The state of Israel is ready to contribute its full share to the peaceful progress and reconstitution of the Middle East. Our call goes out to the Jewish people all over the world to rally to our side in the task of immigration and development, and to stand by us in the great struggle for the fulfillment of the dream of generations—the redemption of Israel.

New Delhi, India, May 14 (U.P.).—Narayan Vinayak Godse and eight others will go on trial Friday for the murder of Mohandas K. Gandhi, it was announced today.

Hughes Probe Report Revised

Four Democratic members of the former Senate War Investigating Committee yesterday decided to make substantial changes in a tentative minority report on the investigation of the aircraft contracts of Howard R. Hughes, West Coast planemaker.

The tentative report became public and was widely printed after The Washington Post erroneously released it. The document had been marked "for release upon introduction" and when it was distributed Post Reporter Mary Spargo assumed it had been filed when in fact it had not.

Senator O'Connor (D., Md.) had not agreed to the minority views expressed in the document which was strongly critical of the majority handling of the Hughes' inquiry.

Senator Hatch (D., N. M.), who was to have introduced the report, yesterday announced that the four members of the minority—Senators Hatch, Pepper (D., Fla.), McGrath (D., R. I.) and O'Connor—had held an extended conference and "substantially revised the document."

Hatch stressed the fact that O'Connor "had not indicated his agreement to the proposed report which was prematurely published."

The Senate will soon vote upon the right of the Maryland Senator to hold his seat. His election had been disputed by D. John Markey.

The revised report will not be filed until Monday, Hatch stated.

It is believed the minority have agreed to go along with O'Connor's insistence that sections critical of the committee's conduct be stricken. Also slated to be removed from the document is a criticism of the majority for not mentioning the charges and countercharges hurled between Hughes and Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.), committee chairman, during stormy hearings.

Draft Legislation To Get Early Action

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Within the next 10 days both House and Senate will plunge into action on draft legislation, it was disclosed yesterday.

Major developments on the defense front were:

1. Chairman Leo Allen (R., Ill.) of the House Rules Committee agreed to hold hearings Tuesday on the bill to draft men 19 through 25 for two years' service. Floor action is expected to follow quickly.

2. Chairman Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) announced that the Senate Majority Policy Committee had agreed to start floor debate within the next 10 days on a bill which combines the 19 through 25 draft with a limited universal military training program for the 18-year-olds.

3. Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan asked Congress yesterday to permit the Navy to divert funds for building 13 ships to the building of guided missle ships and a giant 65,000-ton aircraft carrier instead. The Bikini Atoll tests proved that a fast-moving surface fleet is "not a profitable target for an atomic bomb," Sullivan told a House Armed Services subcommittee.

Allen's decision to speed hearings on the draft bill came as a surprise. Only a few hours earlier, he had asked the House Armed Services Committee to hold hearings on his substitute plan to recruit volunteers with offers of a $500 a year cash bonus.

Chairman Walter Andrews (R., N. Y.) of the Armed Services Committee flatly rejected the request. Then both went into a huddle with Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr. (R., Mass.) to thresh out the issue.

Allen, who had previously hinted he might block floor action on the draft bill until his bonus plan received attention, emerged from the conference to announce Tuesday's hearings.

On the Senate side, Taft told reporters the policymakers had decided to bring the draft bill to the floor as soon as action is completed on the Army Civil Functions appropriation bill, and on a measure to admit a limited number of displaced persons to this country.

Taft said this schedule should bring up the draft bill by Friday of next week, or if unexpected delays occurred, early the following week.

The Republican leaders did not reach any clear decision, Taft stated, on whether or not the party would support the draft measure written by the Senate Armed Services Committee. The policy group will discuss the question again before it is brought to a vote, Taft said.

Chairman Chan Gurney (R., S. Dak.) sharply criticised the GOP leaders for putting action on the draft bill behind the displaced persons legislation.

Gurney asserted that Senate debate on the controversial DP measure may drag on for several weeks.

"In my opinion," he said, "the draft bill is so important to the national security that it should have been taken up immediately after the Civil Functions appropriation bill."

Sullivan told the House Armed Services group that the new 65,000-ton carrier the Navy proposes to build will be able to defend herself much better than any ship now afloat.

Because its flush-deck construction will eliminate the control "island" used on present day carriers, the new ship will be able to handle very much larger planes than anything now afloat, he said.

"There will be no limit on the wingspread of the planes she can carry. If necessary the wings can extend beyond both sides of the ship," Sullivan told the committee.

He declined to say how much bigger carrier planes were contemplated but said they would be jet-powered. The Navy has indicated that the new carrier, still on the planning board, will be big enough to handle planes capable of carrying atomic bombs.

Sullivan and Representative Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) clashed over the disposition of the 13 partially built ships whose construction the Navy now wants to halt.

The Navy Secretary said construction would be "deferred" rather than abandoned.

"I think the committee should understand," Vinson interrupted, "that once this bill is passed, there is little possibility work on these ships will ever be resumed."

Somervell Throws Gage to Scholars On Winning Peace

Philadelphia, May 14 (AP).—The scholars of America who played major roles in molding victory in two wars were challenged tonight by the former commanding general of the Army Service Forces "to provide the methods to avoid war without sacrifice of our principles."

The challenge was issued before the Associated Harvard Clubs by Gen. Brehon Somervell, now president of Koppers Co., Inc.

These scholars "must do more than merely furnish us the sinews with which to win if war comes upon us," he said.

"Scholarship showed the way to win the last war," he concluded. "It is trying to show us the way to avoid the next one but unless the objective scholarship of the few is translated into the enlightened understanding of the many, it may be of no avail."

Army Assails Soviet in Korea

Seoul, Korea, May 14 (AP).—The American Military Government today denounced "the high-handed action of the Soviet masters of North Korea" for cutting off electric power to United States-occupied southern Korea.

The power was cut off at noon, ostensibly in a quarrel over payment of the power bill.

Actually it amounted to an attempt to force recognition of the Soviet-sponsored government of North Korea.

Russian-occupied North Korea normally supplies more than half the electricity used in the American-occupied Southern zone.

The Americans put into operation two former Navy power plant barges and various military generators.

These, with South Korea's own sources, were sufficient to maintain key factories and essential services, the Military Government reported. They are not enough, however, to preserve an even flow to all homes and business houses.

Economies were ordered, and householders laid in stocks of candles in anticipation of power rationing.

Seoul itself was only slightly browned out. Non-essential lights were out, but streetcars still operated.

At the start of the occupation in 1945 the Americans dealt with the Soviet military on electricty.

The Russians recently announced they had turned the matter over to their North Korean puppet regime.

That regime broadcast a demand that south Korean representatives be sent to Pyongyang, the northern capital, by noon May 14 to discuss payment. (Had such a delegation been sent, it would have amounted to defacto recognition of the North Korean government.)

Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge, American occupation commander, refused to deal with the North Koreans, but has repeatedly offered to settle with the Russians.

Taylor Cancels Oklahoma Date

Oklahoma City, May 14 (AP).—Senator Glen Taylor, Third Party vice presidential candidate, has canceled a speaking engagement here Sunday because of a segregation rule on public meetings in municipal auditorium.

City Manager Bill Gill, jr., said he had received a telegram from national headquarters of the party that Taylor would not be here.

Carl Von Der Lancken, secretary of the Progressives in Oklahoma, said a test suit may be filed. Henry A. Wallace is the party's presidential candidate.

Greece Denies Soviet Charges

Athens, Greece, May 14 (AP).—The government tonight denied Soviet charges that hundreds of guerillas and other leftists have been executed recently for political crimes.

Press Minister Michael Ailianos said 139 persons have been executed since May 1 as "common criminals" or as persons convicted by courts-martial. No one has been executed in reprisal for the assassination of Justice Minister Christos Ladas, he said.

Criticism from abroad, he added, "is due to misinformation about facts." Ailianos said 61 persons have been executed as common criminals and 78 by courts-martial since May 1.

Ailianos replied to a Russian note protesting "the mass execution of Greek Democrats."

Trade Act Limit Of Year Approved

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Over sharp Administration protests, a House Ways and Means Republican majority yesterday voted to limit renewal of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act to one year and cut back the President's tariff-making powers.

The party-line committee vote was 15 to 9. Republican leaders, who approved the trade act modifications a day earlier, arranged for Rules Committee clearance and House action early next week.

President Truman, in a special message to a reciprocal trade rally here, meanwhile warned that an unimpaired trade program "has never been so important as now to us and the rest of the world."

"The renewal of the Trade Agreements Act without crippling amendments and for a satisfactory period of time is essential to give us this (world trade) mechanism," Mr. Truman said.

Swope Leads Spokesmen

Led by Gerard Swope, spokesmen for 50 business, farm, labor, veteran and public affairs organizations, condemned the one-year extension at the so-called "people's hearings" on the program at the Mayflower Hotel.

In his message to the group, Mr. Truman thanked the Citizens Committee for Reciprocal World Trade and said he believes American citizens overwhelmingly support renewal of the act.

"Circumstances have given the United States the economic leadership of the world," he said. "We have consistently exercised that leanership in the direction of better living standards and better international relations throughout the world. We cannot now turn back from this goal and start again down the road toward the mirage of economic isolationism.

"To be consistent and retain our leadership we urgently need the tested and effective mechanism of the reciprocal trade agreements program."

Party Difference Highlighted

The historic difference between the two major parties—Republican high tariff protectionism versus Democratic maximum trade exchange—was highlighted in the House Ways and Means Committee vote.

Representative Robert L. Doughton (N. C.), ranking Democrat on the group, said the GOP's foreshortened program "seems to be the method of the opponents of killing the program without accepting direct responsibility for its death."

Said the plain-spoken Doughton: "I have not been able to make up my mind whether the effect of the Gearhart bill would be to cut the head and the heart out of the program, or whether it merely amputates its arms and legs."

Gearhart Defends Bill

Representative Bertrand W. Gearhart (R., Calif.), chairman of the subcommittee that limited the program, said the bill curbed the State Department's "autocratic" trade powers but denied it "crippled" the act.

"The one-year extension indicates no more of a step toward high trade barriers than did the Democratic extension of two years in 1943," said Gearhart. "It is both fair and reasonable that any new Administration which might take office in 1949 should formulate its own policies . . ."

Before reporting the trade act modifications, the Ways and Means Committee turned down by an identical 15-to-9 party division a motion by Doughton to extend the act three years without change. All members voted except Representative Milton H. West (D., Tex.), who is ill.

Curbs President

Besides limiting renewal to June 30, 1949, the bill restricts the President's authority, through the State Department, to cut tariffs as much as 50 per cent under 1945 levels.

Instead, he would have to submit tariff items to be negotiated in future pacts to an independent tariff commission. The commission would hold public hearings and "advise" the President how far he could go in lowering or raising each item.

Unless the proposed trade agreement squared with tariff commission recommendations, the President would have to submit it to Congress. Congress could then block the agreement by passing concurrent resolutions of disapproval through both houses within 60 days. If Congress exercised its "veto" privilege, the trade agreement would have to be renegotiated.

The legislation affects only future trade agreements. Trade pacts already negotiated will stay on the books until their terms expire or the Administration reopens them.

Reds Replace Top Brass in Berlin Purge

Berlin, May 14 (AP).—Reports reached western Allied officials here today that dozens of high officers are being sent back to Russia in a purge of the Soviet administration in Germany.

The broom is being used by a new political general named Scharnov whose authority stems directly from the Kremlin and in some respects supersedes that of the Soviet commander in chief, Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky, these reports said.

Scharnov replaced a man named Malinin as political adviser to Sokolovsky recently. Lieut. Gen. G. S. Lukiantschenko, Sokolovsky's chief of staff, also has been replaced by a Major General Barinov.

Even Sokolovsky is reported in disfavor with the Kremlin. After Sokolovsky voiced his regrets at the crash of a British transport plane and a Soviet fighter last month he was reported called to Moscow, and subsequently the Soviet attitude stiffened.

The American-licensed news agency Dana estimated 85 high Russian officers were being replaced.

Official American observers speculated the Russians were changing the guard because they did not want to risk any softening under western influence.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military commander in Germany, said in Frankfurt today he did not believe the recent Soviet-American exchange of views in Moscow on differences dividing the two countries had changed "in any way" the tense situation in Berlin.

A special detachment of Soviet officers from Berlin threw the American-Soviet zonal border at Hof into confusion last night and today when it turned back more than 1,000 Germans on the grounds their papers were "not in order" when American officers tried to send a trainload of illegal border crossers back to the Soviet zone.

Official Word Smith Would Quit Is Denied

By the United Press

If Ambassador W. Bedell Smith intends to resign his post in Moscow, he hasn't told the State Department about it.

"The Ambassador has not informed the department of any wish to resign or any plans to return to Washington in the near future," said department spokesman Michael J. McDermott.

That statement was volunteered in answer to published reports that Smith had become so disgusted with Russia's way of handling diplomatic business that he was going to quit. His wrath was said to have been aroused by Moscow's action in making public a confidential diplomatic exchange he had with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov on May 4.

McDermott said that so far as the department knows, Smith is on a fishing vacation in Normandy, France, and plans to go back to Moscow after his holiday.

Statehood for Hawaii

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) said yesterday he favors Statehood for Hawaii.

But Taft told reporters he has not decided whether to support a resolution by Senator Knowland (R., Calif.) to take the Hawaiian Statehood bill from the Senate Insular Committee and bring it before the Senate for debate.

Belasco Theater

It is a piece of great good news for Washington that the Public Buildings Administration will seek bids for operation of the Belasco Theater as a legitimate playhouse. This community of more than a million needs at least a second theater. Boston, which embraces a population not much larger, supports four theaters, and Washington in a day when it was far less populous than it is now, managed to keep several functioning throughout a prosperous dramatic season. If, as must be feared, the National is to cease operation as a legitimate playhouse in August because its lessee is unwilling to seat Negroes who purchase tickets, Washington will have no structure save the Belasco suitable for the presentation of dramatic performances with flesh and blood performers.

It remains to be seen whether the hope of reconverting the Belasco into a functioning theater will be realized. The cost of reconditioning it will certainly be considerable, and the terms on which the Public Buildings Administration is willing to lease the property may not seem attractive to entrepreneurs whose primary interest, naturally enough, will be in gleaning a profit. Prospective lessees should know that this is a good theater town and can become an even better one if the right sort of theatrical fare is offered to the public. They should know, too, that there are plenty of Washingtonians who are sufficiently Americanized to be glad to share their theater enjoyment with other Americans regardless of their race or color. The Belasco, if it reopens, will be nondiscriminatory; and that in itself will be an immense stride forward. The Public Buildings Administration, and the Treasury which now occupies the structure, deserve warm commendation for making this stride possible.

The Iron Curtain

The consternation of Messrs. Dimitri Shostakovich, Serge Prokofieff, Aram Khatchaturian and Nikolai Miaskovsky must be immense. Just as they were wending their way back into the Kremlin's graces with abject confessions of the bourgeois taint of their musical compositions, along comes the motion picture, The Iron Curtain, to get them in hot water again. The Iron Curtain is the Hollywood film version of the story of Igor Gouzenko, the code clerk in the Soviet Embassy who at the risk of his life disclosed details of the Russian spy network to the Canadian government. The musical score of the picture borrows liberally from the works of the four Soviet composers.

No one has suggested that the music was used through the connivance of the composers, but certainly its appearance in a picture showing Russian duplicity in the worst possible light is hardly calculated to enhance their popularity with the party bosses. Indeed, it is hard to restrain a modicum of discreet sympathy for the composers, who have now sought to purge themselves of capitalist stigma by writing a letter of protest to Izvestia and by filing suit in the New York State Supreme Court to enjoin the use of their compositions. Whether the composers have a legal case we cannot say, but they have a big job on their hands if they are out to stop the playing of their works by every capitalist orchestra or record fancier.

These are by no means the only protests that have been raised against The Iron Curtain. Writing in the USSR Information Bulletin, the Soviet journalist, Ilya Ehrenberg, unleashes his considerable powers of invective. Americans, he suggests, should "add to their Ten Commandments an eleventh . . . 'Stop at nothing.'" He invokes the familiar propaganda line about "martial-minded Yankees" and "film provocateurs" with "no conception of what the Soviet Embassy is like," but "familiar . . . with the morals of diplomatic gangsters." "The Iron Curtain," he says, "was invented to slander the Soviet Union." Gouzenko he brushes off as a "blackguard in a small position" with "an enormous appetite." In addition to Mr. Ehrenberg's screed, the Daily Worker has taken up the cudgels with some screams of its own. The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship also has protested the picture, and there have even been veiled hints that the Soviet Embassy would take "diplomatic" action.

Actually The Iron Curtain is a factual presentation of the incidents leading to the exposure of the terrifying Soviet conspiracy in Canada. The story is amply documented in the report of the Canadian Royal Commission, which we recommend as an admirable textbook in the technique of Communist espionage. It is obvious that the truth hurts, and hurts badly. But the storm of anguished protest can scarcely be expected to stop the showing of the picture, if indeed it is so intended; it is, to paraphrase P. G. Wodehouse, if not inept, at least far from ept. The Iron Curtain could have no better advertising than through the assorted writhings of the Communist apologists.

Cabinet And Congress

The House of Representatives acted on Thursday under a misapprehension that the executive branch of the Government is subordinate to the legislative branch. It is not. It is coordinate in authority. Responsible exercise of its constitutional powers requires it to submit to the Legislature all information in its possession appropriate to discharge of the legislative function; and plainly the will of Congress deserves from the President the utmost respect. Nevertheless there are certain types of confidential information—military secrets, for example, or investigative reports obtained under a solemn pledge that they will be kept confidential—which cannot be disclosed without injury to the public interest. The judgment of the President in this connection deserves the utmost respect of Congress and, in the last analysis, must be controlling if the constitutional duties of the executive branch are to be discharged and its coordinate status maintained.

There have been, of course, numerous occasions in the history of the United States when the House of Representatives or the Senate has sought information which a President has deemed it proper to withhold. Now and then one or the other has gone so far as to adopt a resolution demanding the data it desired. But President after President, when convinced that disclosure of confidential documents would not be in the public interest, has declined to yield to such demands. And until now, out of respect for the President's office and for the independence conferred upon the Executive branch by the Constitution, no Congress has attempted to coerce where it could not persuade; as Representative McCormack pointed out in the House debate on the Hoffman bill Wednesday, "This is the first time in the history of our country that this matter has ever been presented to any branch of the Congress of the United States in the form of a bill."

One need only look at the internal contradiction of Mr. Hoffman's bill to see its iniquity, if not its sheer inanity. Under its terms, material actually in the hands of the President could not be extorted from him; nor would Mr. Hoffman presume to summon the President of the United States himself to appear willy-nilly before a congressional committee. But a member of the President's Cabinet who is, after all, merely an extension of the President, an agent subject to dismissal at the President's will, could be fined and sentenced to a year in jail for refusing to tell a committee of Congress what the President had expressly forbidden him to divulge. The distinction contained in the bill is altogether illusory. A Cabinet official's reticence is the President's reticence. And only the people of the United States speaking at the polls, or the Congress acting through impeachment proceedings provided for in the Constitution, can discipline him for it.

Possibly the Republican majority in Congress has the power to enact Mr. Hoffman's bill into law, even over an inevitable presidential veto. Let us hope, however, that it will have the wisdom to eschew this power. Were it to persist in so reckless a test of political strength, the issue would have to come before the judicial branch of the Government which, to be sure, the Congress could subvert, too. But its triumph would entail nothing less than a shattering of the tripartite structure of the United States Government—a structure which has served the American people well and which has endured because, until now, each of the three parts has had the restraint to recognize the independent and coordinate character of the other two.

Moral Leadership

Governor Dewey's reputation will certainly be proof against Governor Stassen's cheap and silly taunt that he has been guilty of "coddling Communist organizations with legality." But it is by no means so clear that Governor Stassen's own prestige can survive this self-revelation of political recklessness and low-punching.

Governor Dewey has spoken of the Communist problem not with any carelessness or any insensitivity to its importance but with a lively and greatly creditable appreciation of the great American values he desires to protect against Communist attack. "American leadership can be imperiled," he declared last week in a statement which could well serve as a model for political aspirants, "if we lose our moral leadership." And he went on to make clear precisely what he meant:

> Only one thing may destroy this. And that is if we follow this loose and demagogic appeal to outlaw communism and destroy the Bill of Rights. In America, we prosecute people for what they do, not for what they think. There never was a more important issue than this for the conscience and competence of the American people.

President Truman said much the same thing at his press conference on Thursday. These are words that express an elementary American principle, a regard for the rights of individuals, a respect for the Constitution and for the concept of a government of laws without which no man can be considered qualified for the Presidency of the United States.

School Compact

Recommital was the wisest way to deal with the Southern regional compact bill. Whether the Southern States must secure congressional approval in order to set in motion the system of regional schools they have projected is a delicate constitutional problem which can scarcely be answered with any finality short of a decision by the Supreme Court. It may be that Senator Cooper and Senator Morse are quite right in saying that the States have ample authority under the Constitution to enter into such a compact of their own accord, on the ground that education is a function of the States and not of the Federal Government. But if, as most of the Senators from the South appear to feel, Federal approval is necessary, then it follows inescapably, as Senator Morse argued, that the Federal Government has power to attach conditions to any compact to which it is a party and must, as a guarantor of civil rights, do so.

Senator Morse put it this way: "If we assume congressional authorization is necessary, then we cannot avoid expressing ourselves on national policy as to the civil rights involved." He wished this expression of national policy to take the form of a proviso that "any regional school established under this compact shall not apply any registration qualifications based upon a discrimination because of race, color or creed to any student." In other words, he would abolish in the regional schools the racial segregation practiced in the local schools of all Southern States planning to participate in the compact. The situation is quite different from that involved in the aid to education bill recently passed by the Senate under which Federal funds are allocated to States that impose segregation on their schools as well as to States that do not. The aid bill is an appropriation measure which recognizes the right of the States to do what they will within their own domain. The proposed compact, lacking Senator Morse's amendment, would give Federal sanction to segregation on a regional basis, quite outside the area of State control. This is something to which the United States should never be a party.

The regional school idea could be the basis for a great stride forward in Southern education. Through a pooling of their resources, the States of the South could create better and stronger institutions of learning than they are capable of supporting individually. And if they mean to let these institutions serve all the people of the South, they deserve the Nation's full support. But if they conceive of the regional schools as nothing more than a device to get around the rulings of the Supreme Court in the Gaines and Sipuel cases, they should receive no Federal indorsement, and they are almost certainly due for disappointment. In these cases, the Court held States may segregate Negro students from white students but that they must provide equal facilities for both. They can no more do this by sending a Negro to a regional institution than by sending him to an institution of another State, the solution which the court found invalid in the Gaines case.

Senator Cooper faced this fact squarely. "The adoption of this compact," he said, "could not relieve any State signatory to the compact of its constitutional duty to provide schools for Negro students within the State, if it provides similar schools for white students within the State." Conversely, we presume, if the compact is now put into effect, white students would be within their constitutional rights in insisting that the States provide them with regional schools paralleling those to be established for Negroes. We can see no way out for the Southern States save a recognition that segregation is as uneconomic as it is unjust. There could be no better place for them to inaugurate a change which is one of the imperatives of our time than in graduate schools established on a regional basis where mature men and women of the two races can resolve the prejudices which have been for so long a tragic problem to both.

Minnesota Mob

The resort to mob action at the strike-bound Cudahy packing plant at Newport, Minn., on Thursday night is a disgrace to unionism and a humiliation to the Nation. Press reports of yesterday indicate that 200 men invaded the packing plant during the night, wrecked parts of it, released 200 hogs, injured several employes, and carried away 30 persons as hostages. This sort of violence is likely to destroy whatever chance the workers had of winning their strike and to cost the union dearly in terms of prestige even though the officials of the union may have had nothing to do with organization or execution of the raid.

Apparently the trouble began when the pickets around the plant refused to limit their numbers in accord with a court injunction. The sheriff failed to open the picket line because his force was too small to fight its way through. The strikers may have become desperate because 200 men and women identifying themselves as both union and nonunion employes had called on Governor Youngdahl, said they wanted to go back to work and asked him what he was going to do about the violence that was keeping them away from their jobs. Whatever the circumstances, however, this sort of mobbery in Minnesota is no more excusable than mobbery in Mississippi or Alabama. Organized labor would do well to cooperate with the State authorities in exposing those who are guilty and in breaking up the lawless picketing from which the trouble apparently stemmed.

Inept Diplomacy

Shooting from the hip with seemingly small consideration for the results, the Administration hastened Tuesday to place us behind a stymie in every corner of the globe.

Would it or would it not have been wiser to accept the conference statement at face value, making clear that other interested nations should take part either through general invitation or through the machinery of the United Nations, rather than hastening to advise the hopeful peoples of the world that "We didn't ask you?"

If Russia wants to continue expanding by direct or indirect force, then she will find out the hard way that the free peoples of the earth will meet that force. But when she openly or by subterfuge wants to "talk," then let us talk. Certainly, let us not get into the position where we are the ones to turn down "peace" conferences.

We must be alert. We must be determined in a hard world. But let's not get behind the eight-ball on the propanganda front.

DONALD C. EDMONDS.
Washington.

Certainly the exchange of notes was a windfall for the Russians, and we are humiliated. And such things will continue unless, and until we take seriously Washington's admonition to mind our business. Charity, yes. Meddling in other's affairs, no. Europe will do what it darn pleases in the end. And it will not stay Communist even though, in its march forward it may pass by and through that stage.

"University Women"

Let me congratulate you on your usual excellent editorial May 11—this one on "University Women." The purpose of education is to remove prejudice. If the present local AAUW branch does not appreciate your editorial, I am sure the great majority of the national members and other branch members will. Every good word for a policy of nondiscrimination is a plea for justice long overdue.

The news that the Belasco will reopen under such a condition of nondiscrimination, that a bill has been introduced to abolish segregation in the Washington school system, and others to obtain equal rights in the District gives one courage to hope that Washington eventually will become a capital one can be proud, as well as happy, to live in.

MARIE S. KLOOZ.

"The New Churchill"

May I express my appreciation of the brilliant editorial in your issue of May 11 entitled "The New Churchill." The theme was, I think, worthy of the editor's best talents, and he truly rose to the heights of inspired writing. I appreciated it all the more because it had seemed to me in the past that your editors were not quite disposed to give Mr. Churchill his full due of both credit and trust. May they continue so ably to interpret and promote the advancing leadership of that great world statesman.

CHARLES T. ANDREWS.

Stassen's "Liberalism"

Mr. Stassen appears to have a reputation as a liberal among some people, yet that reputation is undeserved. He is opposed to Government subsidies for low-cost housing, although it is impossible to build new homes to rent to people with moderate incomes without such subsidies. He favors a 50 per cent tax limit on income taxes, which would work out as a substantial gift to the very rich compared with the present tax rates and may help to explain why his campaign is so well financed.

He advocated denying Marshall Plan aid to nations which nationalized any industries even when that was the result of a democratic decision. Most of the European nations have already done that to some extent, so his proposal on the Marshall Plan would in effect wreck the plan. Incidentally, Stassen's proposal if adopted would lend added weight to the Communist argument that the Marshall Plan is not a generous aid to Europe, but an insidious American attempt to dominate Europe.

He proposes to outlaw the Communist Party. This proposal is probably unconstitutional and certainly unwise, for it would merely drive the Communists completely underground, and thus make it still more difficult to spot them and to expose their attempts to infiltrate and dominate unions and liberal organizations.

Arlington School Funds

At a time when every magazine and newspaper in the country is carrying articles and stories on the need for better education, the majority of our county board (Mr. De Lashmutt, Mr. Chew and Mr. Frisbie) has seen fit to cut the amount requested by the school board for Arlington schools. Because our schools have never had sufficient money spent on them to provide the services normally available in up-to-date communities, even the inadequate program heretofore available will suffer—with continued inflation, there is no alternative. Also, the surplus built up during the war years, when building was nil, has now been used up.

The cut is even larger than appears on the surface. Some $225,000 was lopped off the sum requested by the school board. In addition, however, by granting a lump sum appropriation instead of the customary percentage of tax receipts, the county board denied to the school board an additional source of funds, estimated as high as $150,000, which in the past constituted a contingency fund. The actual cut, therefore, was close to $375,000 and killed the long-hoped-for full day sessions for first and second graders.

Last year the elected school board was voted into office with a two to one majority because of the platform they presented. The people of Arlington wanted better schools. Now the county board, by withholding sufficient funds to finance the platform of the new school board, blocks the fulfillment of its promises, and thereby disregards the clearly expressed wishes of the people.

Up-to-Date Weather

A recent 8 p. m. weather forecast for the suburbs of Washington was 34 degrees at night with frost. The 8 p. m. temperature was given at 68 degrees. Our own judgment was that it had turned warmer and that frost was most unlikely, but relying on the weather man we went to a lot of unnecessary trouble covering up plants that might be injured.

Does the weather man go home at 5 p. m.? Does the "latest weather report" at 8 p. m. really reflect a competent study of conditions at 7 p. m.? If not, we ought to know when the latest observations were made.

Price Of Being An American

By Malvina Lindsay

Unloved Rich Man

AS CITIZENS new and old ponder their blessings tomorrow in response to President Truman's proclamation for "I Am an American Day," some will be thinking also of the future difficulties of their roles. For it is not going to be easy to live in the splendid hilltop mansion of the world's rich man and be surrounded by squalor. It will not be easy to bear the envy and resentment that power provokes—as many "haughty Englishmen" and "proud Romans" of the past could testify.

The privilege of having personal freedom and opportunity, food and material comforts, in a world tragically short of such things will exact a high price in taxes, work, thought, responsibility. But there is also an emotional testing ahead that will be hard on the American temperament. Both historians and foreign observers of the American character have been warning us we must prepare psychologically for our new cosmopolitan status.

The hardest lesson we may have to learn is that nobody loves his creditor, and that those who give generously seldom receive what they think is their due in gratitude. Yet a desire to be admired and loved by the rest of the world is a dominant American trait.

THE NATION is still young enough, still close enough to its pioneer and colonial status, to want reassurance and praise from its elders. It is boastfully proud of its achievements, and takes great satisfaction in being able to show generosity to other peoples. But for years to come it will be dealing with, and probably helping, tired, debilitated people who may be neurotically touchy about their plight. They will not be as obviously grateful as their benefactors may expect. Hence Americans will have to be able to exclude emotion from their foreign policy and act impersonally and maturely in the interest of a stable world—which is fundamentally their own interest—no matter how their feelings may be hurt or their pride injured.

We Americans will also be up against carping widespread criticism. In our high and exposed position of leadership we will be the target of the world's whinings, complaints and frustrations. Will we be wise enough to understand this behavior, adult enough to overlook it?

We will also receive much just criticism. Will we be able to take it—even to profit from it? Or will we pout and sputter publicly, apoplectically declaim in Congress, stir up tribal-minded voters? One test of a nation's maturity, say authorities on folkways, is the ability to take criticism. If we can stand up to such of that as we meet, especially to what our best friends and allies say of us, we will demonstrate our fitness for the leadership into which we have been thrust.

ANOTHER mental pitfall awaiting us in our new power role is arrogance. Temperamentally we are not inclined to this, though foreigners often mistake our naive boasting for it. But there will be increased need on our part for tactful behavior in our contacts with foreigners both abroad and in this country.

Americans who make them feel that they are backward and uncivilized because they don't do things the efficient American way, or because they lack good roads, bathtubs and electrical gadgets, are likely to earn for their countrymen the hated lord-of-creation role always associated with dominant nationals. In fact our zeal to Americanize the world may prove our greatest weakness as we tread the global boards. And the only truly effective way to deal with this hazard is through education and wider contact with the cultures of other peoples, a process that takes time.

Being an American is going to be hard from now on because we have not been prepared for the glass-house living that goes with power. Heretofore we have been isolated enough—at least so we thought—to be juvenile and carefree. Now we are expected to become self-controlled, responsible, grown-up almost overnight. It will be harder than conquering the wilderness. Yet more depends on our character and personality than on our resources as to how well we carry out our assignment in history.

California Attorney General Denies "Oil Lobby"

The State of California and I, as its attorney general, desire to call your attention to a column written by Mr. Drew Pearson appearing in The Washington Post of May 10.

Members of the National Association of Attorneys General have deliberately overlooked many of Mr. Pearson's columns in the past. This may have been poor policy on the part of the association, but we have always felt that Mr. Pearson's attacks on the submerged lands bill were so far-fetched as to be unbelievable to logically-minded readers.

Mr. Pearson's May 10 column bore the headling "Lobbying Now No. 1 Industry Here." I, on behalf of the Association of Attorneys General and the State of California, defy Mr. Pearson to produce proof of the existence of an "oil lobby" in Washington.

Mr. Pearson referred to "tidelands oil, the great continental shelf extending under the water off the Pacific and Gulf Coasts." If he had read the bill, S. 1988, to which he refers, he would know that the continental shelf outside the boundaries of the States is not included in this bill. The continental shelf and the boundaries of the States are not related, as anyone who has studied the legislation must know.

Reflections upon the motives and capabilities of Chairman Ed H. Moore are likewise resented by our organization. The charge that Senator Moore "introduced" the bill and is "front-line commander" of the alleged oil lobby is utterly without foundation. The tidelands measure was introduced by 10 Democrats and 10 Republicans in the Senate representing States spanning the Nation, any one of whom would be glad, I know, to challenge Mr. Pearson's allegation. The attorneys general of 44 States, who recently appeared before a joint Senate-House Judiciary Subcommittee, also will be interested to receive an explanation of the Pearson column.

Here are some of the facts which Mr. Pearson ignores when he talks about the so-called tidelands issue:

The National Association of Attorneys General set up a Washington office because it felt the California decision i perilled the title not only to seacoast properties but to all lands underlying inland waters as well.

Walter R. Johnson, attorney general of Nebraska, was put in charge of the legislative fight, as former president of the association. His salary and expenses are paid by the association and are financed by contributions from the States alone. Mr. Johnson is not a "shock troop commander," as Mr. Pearson describes him, but the manager of the local office.

Mr. William W. Clary, former assistant attorney general of California, was described as "deputy shock troop commander" by Mr. Pearson. It is apparent to anyone with an interest in the tidelands matter that Mr. Pearson deliberately misrepresented the facts, when he spoke of the "lush bonanza of $270,000 in attorneys fees" which was "dropped into the lap of Mr. Clary and his associates by various clients last year." If you will refer to news stories printed at the time of the hearing and to the transcript itself, you will note that the $270,000 was paid during a period of nearly three years,—starting February 20, 1945, and continuing to January 1 of this year and Senator Donnell repeatedly stated that he regarded these fees as both "proper and reasonable."

Mr. Clary's firm, O'Melveny & Myers, has done much work on land title matters, and it was natural for my predecessor, Attorney General Robert W. Kenny, to seek the help of a lawyer experienced in this highly-technical field. It is obvious that the interest of California as lessor and those of the municipalities and companies who are lessees must necessarily be a common interest.

Mr. Clary was retained as a special assistant, and has continued to aid the State of California whenever his services are requested. I consider my State fortunate to have the advice and assistance of one of the most qualified experts on land title matters in the United States.

To conclude, there is not and to my knowledge never has been an "oil lobby" in Washington. California employed a public relations expert for a period of two weeks. He was Mr. Eugene Kelly, a Washington newspaperman, referred to in Mr. Pearson's column.

I consider Mr. Pearson's comment that I, as attorney general, and Eugene Kelly, as part-time public relations man for the State of California, were left "with a big hole in their pockets" which "from a practical viewpoint, the oil companies will fill up" a libelous statement and a deliberate smear by Mr. Pearson and an effort to discredit me and those who are working with me in the legitimate effort put forth by the respective States of this Union in support of this legislation.

I respectfully request that you publish this letter, in order that your readers may read the true facts about the so-called tidelands issue. It is my intention to demand a retraction of Mr. Pearson's grossly inaccurate story.

FRED N. HOWSER,
Attorney General of California.

'Rail Threat'

A Communication

THE EDITORIAL "Rail Threat" appearing in The Washington Post on April 30 presents such a gross distortion of facts that you cannot, in fairness, fail to give equal prominens to a correction.

The substance of the view expounded in the editorial is that an "opportunistic policy" of President Roosevelt to avert transportation paralysis by repeatedly ignoring emergency board recommendations that were unacceptable to the unions encouraged the use of strike threats to obtain greater concessions; and that this has reached a point requiring amendment of the Railway Labor Act further to curb the power of labor. The factual premises of this view are wholly false.

The handling of wage and rules issues in the railroad industry on a national basis began in 1932 when labor and management in direct national negotiations agreed upon a 10 per cent deduction from wages. This was followed by successive agreements providing for the extension and then the piecemeal elimination of the deduction. The only other national movements occurring up to 1941 were the wage increase movement of 1937 which was settled by mediation prior to any occasion for invoking an emergency board, and the carrier-initiated wage reduction movement of 1938, which was withdrawn upon recommendation of an emergency board.

In 1941 a national dispute was heard by an emergency board whose recommendations were unacceptable to the employes. Our quarrel was not primarily with the board's findings as to the equities of the case, but with recommendations ignoring those equities and singling out railroad employes for the imposition of a stabilization policy at a time when no general stabilization policy was in effect and when, consequently, the cost of living and nonrailway wages were rising rapidly.

More important to the issue here, however, is the fact that the dispute was settled, not through opportunistic ignoring of the board's recommendations but by the mediatory efforts of the board itself, carried out in the succeding 30-day period during which the law requires maintenance of the status quo.

In 1942-43 there was again a national movement by both the operating and nonoperating employes. The nonoperaeting case was heard by an emergency board which reported its findings and recommendations in May, 1943, including specific findings that the wage increases recommended conformed with the requirements of stabilization policy. The recommendations were acceptable to both management and labor, and indeed the parties thereafter actually entered into an agreement putting them into effect.

But the settlement was not allowed to become operative because the stabilization director, contrary to the specific findings of the emergency board, disapproved the terms. The six months of chaos in the industry that followed, culminating in danger of a work stoppage at the end of the year, all flowed directly fro mthat ill-advised interference.

When the dispute was settled early in 1944 on terms suggested by President Roosevelt, his intervention was necessitated not by the unacceptability to labor of the original emergency board recommendations but by his desire to find substitute terms that would be likewise acceptable to the parties and also could be cast into formulas that satisfied the stabilization director. When these events were reviewed by Congress it addressed itself to the source of the trouble and relieved the stabilization director of authority to disapprove emergency board findings.

IN THE 1945-46 wage movements the 15 nonoperating organizations and 3 of the operating organizations submitted the issues to arbitration. The awards made were promptly put into effect by agreements signed the next day. Because the increase awarded was less than the pattern that had been established in other industries, and thus operated to widen the disparity between railroad wages and those in other industries, new movements seeking an additional increase were inaugurated in accordance with the procedures of the Railway Labor Act.

In May, 1946, these requests were under discussion in conferences with managements; they were not the subject of any strike threat and could not become the subject of such a threat for at least several months. At this stage the issues were settled by voluntary agreements entered into at the request of President Truman and on terms, suggested by him, making up the difference between the increases allowed in the earlier arbitration awards and the generally prevailing pattern in other industries of 18½ cents. Thereupon the President forced the two organizations which had called a strike to settle on the same terms.

From this brief resume of railroad labor relations it is apparent that there is no foundation for your assumption that there is prevalent a practice of ignoring emergency board recommendations or that such a course has received presidential encouragement. I do not represent any of the employes involved in the current dispute and I do not assume to speak for them. Nevertheless some comment may be in order on the inadequacy with which the press has presented the issues to the public.

Virtually all daily papers of any consequence have been doing a good business in carrying huge paid advertisements presenting the railroad arguments, but there has been precious little objective reporting or editorial comment presenting the facts available from public records. The emergency board report is 99 typewritten pages (exclusive of appendices), of which seven are devoted to the wage dispute; the other 92 pages discuss disputes over working rules which the board states originated in 1945. Yet seldom, if ever, does one find in press reports even an attempt objectively to indicate what issues other than the wage dispute are involved, and never is there any commendation of the repeated efforts of the employes over the course of three years to settle these disputes by negotiation or mediation.

And with respect to wages the press almost universally reports the issue to be the same as that settled by other employes last fall. Obviously the issue of whether 15½ cents per hour is an adequate increase now when "third round" increases are being negotiated in other industries is quite a different one from the issue decided by the nonoperating arbitration board, which concluded its hearings last August and made its 15½-cent award early in September.

YOU LAMENT the unavailability of the injunction procedures of the Taft-Hartley Act to avert an impending railroad strike. Have you given any serious thought to the fact that under the Railway Labor Act these railroad unions have been under what is for all practical purposes equivalent to an automatic injunction for a much longer period than the maximum duration of a Taft-Hartley Act injunction?

Because the early stages of a rail labor dispute lack the fanfare of hailing labor leaders into court, the press has little interest in keeping the public informed of what is going on and what the issues are. But when the dramatics inherent in an impending strike are available for exploitation you raise the cry for coercive measures without regard to the restraints that have already run their course.

What is most deplorable, not only in the current railroad situation, but in important industrial disputes in any basic industry, is the alacrity with which the channels of public information raise the demand for injunctions or other coercive measures to stifle the effective expression of labor unrest. It is assumed without inquiry that it is wrong for the employes to enforce their demands by a work stoppage. The possibility that management's adamant adherence to a wrongful position may be responsible for the cessation of essential public services is excluded from consideration.

IN THE current railroad dispute you no doubt feel that the existence of emergency board recommendations that the employes have rejected is a self-sufficient reason for holding them wrong. But that approach makes the emergency board procedure tantamount to compulsory arbitration, which it was definitely not intended to be.

Emergency board reports have generally proved very helpful in promoting settlements, and even where settlements have not embodied their precise terms they have nevertheless exerted a potent influence in the settlement. But they are not decrees and they are not infallible. In the present situation, a statesmanlike approach would seek objectively to appraise the reasons why the recommendations are not producing a settlement with unions that have an honorable record of fair dealing going back three quarters of a century. Instead, your approach is automatically to condemn nonacceptance of the recommendations.

The desire to deny the right to strike, which the public press is fostering, has dangerous implications for the maintenance and advancement of American living standards. What happens when the right to strike is eliminated is well illustrated by the recent conduct of U. S. Steel in flatly denying its employes any wage increase despite the company's enormous profits, despite the sharp rise in living costs in the past year and despite the fact that the increase in living costs is receiving recognition through increased wages to employes who are not disabled from effectively asserting their rights.

The advancement of railroad wages and working conditions has fallen far behind that in other industries during the past 25 years and especially during the last half of that period. The restraints of the Railway Labor Act have without doubt played their part in bringing about that result. Anyone proposing further restraints should do so with full consciousness that he is proposing the further degradation of the living standards of a very substantial segment of American industrial workers.

Truman Asks Congress to Pass Comprehensive Farm Plan

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday asked Congress to pass at this session a comprehensive farm program to replace the wartime laws governing agriculture, many of which will soon expire.

He listed six general objectives. They are:

1. "Sound and lasting economic well-being for our farm population, with parity of prices and income in relation to the rewards in other fields of human effort."

2. "An agriculture that will supply all the kinds and quantities of agricultural products needed for domestic consumption, for sufficient carryover stocks, and for export under present and rising standards of living."

3. "Use of our basic agricultural resources, soil, water and forests, in such manner as will insure their permanent maximum productivity."

4. "Improved levels of nutrition and living for all our people."

5. "Ever-increasing efficiency in production and distribution."

6. "A better living for small farmers, tenant farmers, share croppers and farm labor."

No Chief Executive ever got a quicker response from a congressional committee dominated by the opposite party. A day after the White House announced Mr. Truman was going to ask for a new farm program, the Senate Agriculture Committee announced it was reporting on such a bill pronto.

Yesterday, even before the President's message reached the Capitol, the hastily rewritten Senate bill was released. It will be reported Monday. The report has not yet been written.

Committee employes admitted working desperately day and night preparing it. It is the bill by Senator George D. Aiken (R., Vt.), senior Republican member, entirely rewritten except for the enacting clause. It covers virtually every phase of the farm problem outlined by Mr. Truman—generally the policy enunciated for two years by the Department of Agriculture.

It takes a position on one controversial subject, by granting increased authority to State and county agriculture committees over soil conservation funds, production quotas. It accepts former Secretay Anderson's plea to make adherence to crop quotas a requirement for price supports.

The committee should have been prepared. It had been holding hearings all over the country for two years on the measure.

Prompt action on a permanent agricultural policy, Mr. Truman pointed out, is needed to "maintain a sound and prosperous agriculture."

"It is now nearly three years after the end of the fighting," he wrote. "Most of the farmers . . . are in an excellent economic position. Cash farm income last year reached a record high level of more than 30 billion dollars. Farm mortgage debt has dropped 25 per cent since 1941. The standard of living of most farmers, which rose steadily in the years before the war, has continued to improve."

He then compared the situation with that which followed World War I. Eighteen months after that war, he pointed out, farm prices began to fall, mortgages were being foreclosed, and the "long agricultural depression had already begun."

He attributed part of the better conditions to "high domestic demand and the great need abroad for our agricultural products."

"To a very large extent, however," he added, "our farmers can properly attribute their present prosperity to the sound and far-reaching agricultural legislation enacted before the war."

The President took up former Agriculture Secretary Anderson's theory of "organized, sustained realistic abundance." He admitted that this policy of abundance "includes some factors that lie outside . . . agriculture." Prime essentials, he said, are, "high levels of employment and the maintenance of export outlets."

"At the same time," he said, "it should be recognized that continuing abundance is possible only if we maintain a strong agriculture—strong in physical resources and strong in human resources."

He declared that the wartime policy of price supports had proved itself, and urged "a permanent basis for a system of flexible price supports." Because present price support laws will die December 31, he said:

"Today farmers do not know what levels of price supports or what methods of support will apply," and later said:

"Even less is known about the policy which will apply to next year's crop or to milk and other livestock products for which farmers must plan long in advance." New price supports, he said, should be "geared to our improved farm economy. Many shifts in production will have to be made, and flexible price supports will help us make them in an orderly manner."

He urged full support for soil conservation. Stating that "for many years we have been prodigal with our soil," he spoke of cropland being eroded, pasture and ranges overused; saw timber consumed faster than it is being replaced. Flood menaces on many rivers have not been conquered.

Washington Calling

Dewey In Oregon

NOTHING QUITE like the primary campaign in Oregon has ever been seen in American politics. The outcome may well determine what the Republicans do at their convention in Philadelphia a month from now.

Childs

Consider what an extraordinary spectacle it is. Thomas E. Dewey, Governor of the richest and most populous State in the Union, is making a cross-roads, barnstorming campaign that includes more than 90 speeches as well as appearances at 165 meetings. He is visiting towns as small as Sweet Home, population 1090, and Brownsville, population 784.

Reports from Oregon indicate that the people of that State are flattered at this attention. That the Governor of the Empire State, with 47 electoral votes, should shake hands with voters at a crossroads filling station in a State with 6 electoral votes is something that has not happened before and is not likely to happen soon again.

Shortly before he left Albany, Dewey called on the long-distance phone a Westerner with a broad understanding of Oregon politics. The Governor was frankly seeking advice and for 35 minutes he got it. The advice went something like this:

"The opposition has convinced folks in Oregon that you're a cold fish—that you're a steely-eyed prosecutor. Your only chance to overcome Stassen's lead is to show the pople that you can get down to earth and fight it out. You've got to get your hair mussed up and get a little dirt on your hands."

THAT IS exactly what Dewey is doing. He is striding into coffee shops, hamburger stands, barber shops and school houses. As Richard L. Neuberger put it in one of his revealing dispatches on the campaign, Dewey is seeing more of the State than any tourist since the explorers, Lewis and Clark.

Before he went into Oregon, Dewey also had the benefit of a significant public-opinion poll. On April 30 the Portland Oregonian published the results of a State-wide poll showing that Senator Wayne Morse, Oregon's liberal Senator, rated higher than the conservative Senator Guy Cordon. Both are Republicans.

Firty-four per cent of those asked thought Morse had done a "good job," while 37 per cent expressed this opinion of Cordon. Of those interviewed, 90 out of 100 had heard of Morse, who has made a national reputation for himself in his three years in the Senate, while 74 out of every 100 had heard of Cordon.

Morse, whose forthright liberalism has made him a more or less isolated figure among Republicans in the Senate, officially declared his neutrality in the Dewey-Stassen contest. For four years at the University of Minnesota, Stassen was Morse's pupil, particularly in debate and in the handling of questions in open forum. Ralph Moores, who was Morse's campaign manager in his Senate race, is now Dewey's campaign manager.

THOSE WHO write Dewey off as an opportunist see in the liberalism of his Oregon campaign no more than his customary expediency. They see him as making a desperate last try for a prize that only a few months ago he believed was his for the asking.

The fact remains, however, that he is vigorously fighting Stassen's proposal to outlaw the Communist Party. Furthermore, the evidence would indicate that Stassen has the popular side of this argument.

In his speeches, the former Minnesota Governor gets a hand when he expresses his conviction that a law is necessary to curb communism. This reflects the average American's trusting beleif that all you have to do to cure an evil is to pass a law.

In contrast, Dewey has been speaking, in language of great simplicity and directness, of the threat to fundamental freedoms in any attempt to curb men's opinions by statute. Stassen talks glibly of the number of Communist organizations listed in the New York City telephone directory and of how New York is the Communist center of the country.

There are signs that Dewey's campaign is winning support. Ten days ago cigar stores in Oregon were offering 5 to 3 on Stassen to win the primary contest. This has narrowed to 5 to 4 as day after day, in a chartered bus, Dewey and his party cruise the mountains and the beautiful fertile valleys of the State that has six electoral votes. On May 21 the voters of Oregon may decide who is to be the next President of the United States or, in any event, they may decide who is not to occupy that exalted office.

Elizabeth Warns 2 Nations Of Nationalism's 'Prejudices'

Paris, May 14 (AP).—Princess Elizabeth called upon Britain and France today to "look well beyond their own frontiers" if they would escape destruction and preserve their common way of life.

"We must work for the breakdown of prejudices born of narrow-minded nationalism," the heiress apparent to the British throne said in an address at the opening of an exhibition of the history of Britons in Paris.

She spoke in French before French, British dominion and other notables.

The Princess and Prince Philip, her consort, arrived in Paris earlier today for a four-day stay. The two were closely guarded after rumors of a plot to kidnap or kill her.

President Vincent Auriol conferred the grand cordon of the Legion of Honor on the Princess.

Smiling, he delegated his further ceremonial powers "to your illustrious husband." Protocol requires that the donor kiss the recipient on each cheek.

Elizabeth apparently did not grasp the President's reference. Philip was perhaps too flustered to plant the kisses on his bride.

Convention meetings will be held in the Hangar Room at the National Airport. The convention will get under way with a low mass at 10 a. m. at St. Mary's Church, Aexandria, celebrated by the Most Rev. Peter L. Ireton.

Bishop Lilge Will Be Guest Speaker Here

Bishop Hanns Lilge of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Hanover, Germany, will be guest preacher at the Luther Place Memorial Church, Thomas Circle, Sunday at 11 a. m.

Lilge

Dr. Lilge will speak in connection with the 75th anniversary of the congregation, which is being celebrated this year.

He arrived here April 12 for a 10-week visit which will take him across the United States and into Canada. Imprisoned by the Nazis during the war, Bishop Lilge is the author of a life of Martin Luther and "In the Valley of Darkness, a book on his prison experiences.

Before the war he was general secretary of the German Christian Students' World Union. He is now a member of the executive committee of the Lutheran World Federation, and will lead a study section at the Amsterdam meeting of the World Council of Churches in August.

Upshaw, 'Dry' Crusader, to Preach Here

A Georgia orator who served four terms in Congress and once ran for President on the Prohibition ticket will fill the pulpit at Temple Baptist Church, 10th and N sts. nw., Sunday at 11 a. m.

Upshaw

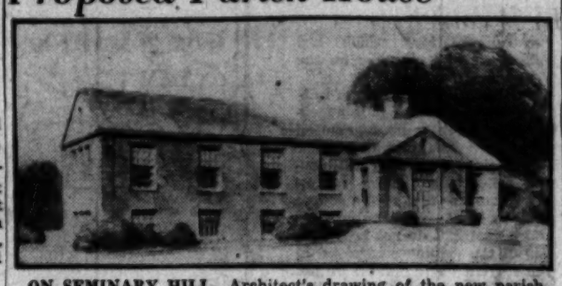
He is William D. Upshaw, 81-year-old evangelist, who was known as "the dryest dry in Congress."

The colorful Georgian startled official Washington by holding a revival meeting at Grace Baptist Church during his first month in Congress in 1919. Another time he wore blue overalls on the floor of the House, declaring "the man in overalls has always been my hero."

After turning down the nomination for President on the Prohibitionist ticket in 1928, Upshaw broke with both major parties in 1932 and ran as the dry candidate.

Upshaw, who was a college friend of Temple pastor Dr. John E. Briggs, will speak Sunday on the "Conquering Church of the Living God." His wife, Mrs. Lilly Galloway Upshaw, California temperance leader he married at 80, will teach the Beall Bible Class at the church.

Proposed Parish House



ON SEMINARY HILL—Architect's drawing of the new parish house for Immanuel-on-the-Hill Church, which serves as chapel for the Virginia Theological Seminary and Episcopal High School in Alexandria. Ground for the new parish house will be broken at 10:30 a. m. Sunday

Parish House Building Will Start Sunday

Immanuel-on-the-Hill, chapel of the Virginia Theological Seminary and Episcopal High School in Alexandria, will break ground for a new parish house Sunday at 10:30 a. m.

Construction of the $65,000 parish house, on Seminary rd., adjoining the seminary, will begin Monday, according to the Rev. J. L. B. Williams, minister in charge of the parish.

Originally built to serve as a chapel for the high school and the seminary, Immanuel-on-the-Hill has been in existence for 125 years. Six years ago the growing population in the area made it necessary to expand the church.

The parish house will contain an auditorium, offices, and recreational facilities and will be a center of activities on Seminary Hill. It will be a memorial to the late Dr. Thomas Kinloch Nelson, seminary professor and chaplain of the high school, who died in 1940.

Participating in the groundbreaking ceremonies will be the Very Rev. Alexander C. Zabriskie, dead of the seminary; Mrs. Ernst Wiecking, Col. Dubois Brookings, the Rev. Mr. Williams, members of the vestry, and children from the church school.

Sunday EVENTS

(Highlights of Sunday's Church Events.)

Pentecost or Whitsunday will be observed in many churches on Sunday.

This is the name of an event celebrated on both the Christian and Jewis traditions. Pentecost was the Greek name of a Hebrew festival called the Feast of Weeks, celebrating the gathering of the harvest, which was observed on the fiftieth day following Passover.

Observance of the Jewish feast included a pilgrimage to Jerusalem. It was on such a pilgrimage, according to the Bible, that the Holy Spirit descended on the Apostles giving them the gift of tongues. The Christian Pentecost takes place on the seventh Sunday after Easter.

Dr. Frederick Wunderlich of Frankfurt, Germany, will speak at 11 a. m. at Calvary Methodist Church, 1459 Columbia rd. nw. Dr. Wunderlich, dean of the Methodist Theological School in Frankfurt, was a delegate to the General Conference of the Methodist Church in Boston last week.

The Lynchburg College Touring Choir will present a program of sacred music at the Ninth Street Christian Church, 9th and D sts. nw., at 7:45 p. m.

This will be family Sunday at Albright Memorial Church, 4th and Rittenhouse sts. nw. An award will be presented to the largest family present at the 11 a. m. service. The Rev. George E. Schnabel, pastor, has been returned to the church for his twenty-second year. This is reported to be the longest pastorate of apy minister in the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

The Rev. James Curtis Fahl, pastor of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church, 4th and B sts. se., will wind up his series of sermons on Christianity and Civilization this week with the topic, "What We Must Do to Save It."

At Cleveland Park Congregational Church, 3400 Lowell st. nw., Dr. Alfred W. Hurst will speak on "The Great Century for the Church" at 11 a. m.

Lutherans Plan Triple Anniversary

The congregation of Augustana Lutheran Church, New Hampshire and V sts. nw., this week will observe a triple anniversary.

During the week-long celebration it will mark the 100th anniversary of the Augustana Synod, the thirtieth year of the congregation's existence in Washington, and the tenth year of service of the church under its present name.

Anniversary observance will begin with an 11 a. m. confirmation service Sunday at which the pastor, the Rev. Clarence T. Nelson, will speak on "Heralds of the Dawn." On Friday at 8 p. m., a "reception of the years" will be held in the church parlor. Mrs. Charles Weber, 314 Shepherd st. nw., the only remaining charter member of the congregation, will light the first candle on a birthday cake.

Saturday's program includes a congregational picnic and vesper services conducted by Dr. Arthur O. Hjelm, pastor of the church from 1937 until 1946.

Bishop Flint to Preside

Bishop Charles Wesley Flint will preside at the 164th annual Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church at American University June 1-4. Speakers will include Bishops Z. T. Kaung of Peking, China, and Paul N. Garber of Zurich, Switzerland.

Methodists To Hold Third Hymn Sing

Greater Washington Methodists will converge on Constitution Hall Sunday at 8 p. m. for their third annual hymn festival.

The sing is sponsored each year by the Methodist Union, and the Methodist Preachers Meeting of Metropolitan Washington. The Rev. T. B. Ehlers, of Brightwood Park Methodist Church, is general chairman.

The hymns of John and Charles Wesley, eighteenth century Methodist leaders, will be featured this year. Episodes from the lives of the Wesleys will be portrayed by the Rev. H. R. Hodgson, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, Takoma Park, and Justin Lawrie, choir director at Foundry Methodist Church.

R. Deane Shure, director of music at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, will direct the singing, and Miss Helen Brewer, director of drama at Mount Vernon Place, will conduct the dramatizations.

Local Methodist churches will cancel their evening services Sunday so all members may join in the sing.

"The Office of the Holy Communion," a mass by Paul Callaway, will be performed at the final Sunday service at St. Agnes Episcopal Church, 44 Q st. nw., Sunday at 11 a. m. The work was written especially for St. Agnes Church and was dedicated to the parish.

On May 23, Sunday services will be held at Ascension Church, 12th and Massachusetts ave. nw. The new parish of Ascension and St. Agnes was created at the Washington Diocesan Convention early this month. The Rev. Albert J. du Bois and the Rev. F. V. Episcopal Church Pupils to Have Field Day Today

Children from Episcopal Church schools in the Washington Diocese will gather at the National Cathedral today at 10 a. m. for their annual field day and Lenten mite box offering.

The children will participate in a recreation program, with softball games, field events, and a pilgrimage through the cathedral. At noon they will have box lunches in the amphitheater, and participate in group singing and entertainment.

At 2:30 p. m. there will be a service in the cathedral. Two processions of vested junior choirs and a procession of 90 young "delegates" bearing a token of the Lenten mitebox offerings from their churches will enter the three cathedral doors. The offerings, amounting to more than $10,000 for the church program, will be received by Bishop Angus Dun.

The Rev. John P. Coleman, vicar of St. Timothy's Church, will read the service, and Dean John W. Suter will deliver the sermon.

Vail Proposes Making Clark Prove 'Theft'

Representative Vail (R., Ill.) said yesterday Attorney General Clark should be subpenaed to appear before Congress and submit proof that the House Un-American Activities Committee "stole" a document from the FBI.

Vail said Clark had been quoted as saying in effect that the committee stole it.

"This reckless and unfounded statement is typical of our present inept Attorney General," Vail told the House. Clark should be subpenaed to appear on the House floor and submit proof. Unless he can prove this charge, he should publicly apologize to the House."

Before Vail spoke, another lawmaker had challenged Clark to begin prosecutions if he thought the document was stolen. This challenge came from Representative McDowell (R., Pa.), acting chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, who cracked back at Clark as "foggy-minded."

It was an FBI report bearing on the loyalty of Dr. Edward U. Condon, head of the Federal Bureau of Standards, that led that Un-American Activities Committee to press for enactment of a measure to compel production of departmental records.

The committee had failed to pry loose from the Commerce Department the full text of an FBI letter it had quoted in part in terming Condon one of the weakest links in this country's atomic security.

Condon has insisted he is absolutely reliable, and has been backed up by both his former and present boss—Secretaries of Commerce Harriman and Sawyer.

Clayton Cancels Talk Because of Illness

William L. Clayton, until recently Undersecretary of State for Economic Affairs, canceled a scheduled address yesterday because of illness. Associates told a reported they did not believe he was seriously ill.

Clayton was due to speak informally at noon before the Citizens Committee for Reciprocal World Trade at the Mayflower Hotel. Instead he went to his home, 2812 Woodland Drive nw.

Md. Farmer Tick Victim

Frederick, Md., May 14 (AP).—Maryland recorded its first Rocky Mountain spotted fever fatality of the season today with the death of John Alvah Engle, 70-year-old Frederick County farmer.

Three cases of the tick-borne fever have been reported since the season for it rolled around May 1.

Last year, Maryland had 74 cases and 11 deaths. The fever was particularly dangerous for city residents, apparently unaccustomed to searching themselves for ticks after a trip into the woods. There were five cases among Baltimore residents and four of them resulted in death.

Uncontrolled Oil Gusher Forms Lake

Leduc, Alberta, May 14 (AP).—Crude oil ran knee-deep across the wheatlands at Leduc today as Atlantic Co.'s No. 3 well continued its rampage, uncontrolled.

The entire field of 60 wells has been closed so oil lines can draw away the wild gusher's flow.

Leduc is pockmarked with volcano-like craters from which gas and oil bubble over a 10-acre area.

Between 8000 and 10,000 barrels of oil daily are gushing from the ground and an estimated 50 million cubic feet of gas is escaping each day.

A lake of mud and oil 200 feet in diameter has been formed just a few yards from the wellhead by the wild gushing that sends bubbles 3 feet wide and 10 before bursting. In the nonmuddy area, oil spray leaps as high as 30 feet.

Beyond this main crater, oil is oozing from the ground as far as half-a-mile from the well and in an area of 40 acres the natural gas breaking through the oil-soaked mud looks like heavy rain on a still lake.

Although smoking is forbidden in the danger zone, at night foot-long flames can be seen coming from the pumps and three-foot tongues of fire from bulldozers. A natural gas flare with flames 50 feet high was burning a mile from No. 3.

6 War Drugs Hailed as New Malaria Hope

Six synthetic drugs compounded during war shortages of quinine may someday spell the end of malaria, the tropical disease which took the greatest toll of armed services in the war.

The optimism was voiced here yesterday by eight physicians who contributed towards the development of the drugs and research on their effects on man. They spoke at the Fourth International Congress on Tropical Medicine being held here under auspices of the State Department.

The new drugs, six out of hundreds compounded and tested, were identified as Pentaquine, Isopentaquine, Paludrine, Chloraquine, Sontoquine and Pamaquine.

Before the war research, quinine was the prescribed medicine for malaria, curing the disease completely in some cases and suppressing its ravages in other. Physicians reporting on the new drugs included:

Dr. B. E. Maegraith, Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine; Drs. A. S. Alving and L. T. Coggeshall, of the Department of Medicine of Chicago; Drs. Daniel P. Earle, jr., and Robert W. Berliner, of the New York University College of Medicine, and J. Schneider, Ph. Decort and D. Mechali, of the faculty of medicine, Paris, France.

At last night's meeting of the congress, special exercises were held to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the discovery by Sir Ronald Ross that malaria is transmitted by mosquitoes.

On Tax Claim

Kellems' Property Is Attached

Westport, Conn., May 14 (AP).—The United States today accepted Miss Vivien Kellems' invitation to do something about her nonpayment of withholding taxes by filing a $1685.40 attachment against her property.

Miss Kellems, who with her brother manufactures cable grips in a shop here, first announced last year that she was going to stop deducting withholding taxes from her employes' pay. She repeated the threat on several occasions, and at the end of the first quarter of this year carried it out.

"I am deliberately violating this law," she said on May 1 in a letter to Treasury Secretary Snyder. "I respectfully request that you please indict me."

The $1685.40 represents the $837.70 the Government says Miss Kellems owes in withholding taxes for the first quarter, a 100 per cent penalty for nonpayment and $10 interest.

Forest Glen Veteran Center Fire Hazard, Says Lawmaker

A 54-year-old frame and stucco structure at Forest Glen, Md., housing 450 convalescing veterans is a fire hazard and should be abandoned as soon as possible, it was declared yesterday.

The charge was made by Representative Margaret C. Smith (R., Me.), chairman of a House Armed Services Subcommittee on Hospitalization and Health, yesterday in a letter to the Army Surgeon General, Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss.

The Congresswoman said that Representative Leon H. Gavin (R., Pa.), accompanied by Robert W. Smart, committee staff official, inspected the Montgomery County structure Thursday. The hospital is a convalescent center for ambulatory patients from Walter Reed.

An Army official at Forest Glen said the three-story building has a sprinkler system, as well as fire escapes and fire breaks and is protected by two fire trucks. The structure, erected in 1894, was taken over by the Army in 1942 and was formerly part of the National Park Seminary for Girls.

A bill is now pending before the House of Representatives authorizing erection of a 1000-bed Army hospital at Forest Glen. Discussion was begun last week, but was postponed to early next week.

One on the Aisle—

Charlie Regrets Edgar's a Dummy

By Richard L. Coe

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen is that Charlie winds up on page one and Edgar just sneaks in way back here.

Charlie, as Chick Yarbrough is telling you up front, graciously granted an audience in the posh Presidential suite of the Statler yesterday. Bergen, poor guy, was there, too, but he wasn't in white tie and tails. Just a nice, friendly Swede, that's Bergen.

Bergen's going to Sweden this summer and he'll be doing his patter with Charlie and Mortimer in Swedish. Charlie's very quick with the language, but Mortimer, as you can guess, is taking his time on the deal. After Stockholm, the trio will set out to conquer London for two weeks at the tip-top Palladium, which is now the Palace of the vaudeville world.

Bergen's a beaver for work, but I must agree with Charlie—the guy's not very smart. Edgar is going to make a short—three-reeler—of the trip with his own color cameras. He'll start things off by showing him and Mortimer sailing on the Stockholm June 5, with Charlie waving goodby on the dock because Charlie is going to have to go to summer school. There'll be lots of scenes on the ship and no one, including Edgar, will be surprised if Charlie sneaks aboard and plays hookey from summer school.

All this, when it's released as either a short or the full-length picture such an idea could become, will be juicy publicity for the Swedish-American Line, but Bergen, that slow-witted sap, is paying full freight like everybody else. I talked with Charlie about this alone yesterday for a few minutes and he felt pretty chagrined about his old friend's lack of business enterprise. On a deal like that Jack Benny would have had the line paying him.

Bergen himself, hiding behind a piano, confessed that it is pretty tough for him to fight shy of Charlie. "Even when we're working on the radio script," says Bergen, "if we get stuck, the thing doesn't iron itself out till we ask Charlie about it. I've known Charlie since I was in high school, you see, and he always knows what's lacking in whatever I'm trying to do."

Madness Ahead?

Had Bergen seen what happened to Michael Redgrave as the ventriloquist in "Dead of Night"?

Charlie looked away from Anita Gordon, Ray Noble's russet-haired singer whom he'd been ogling, and cried: "Yes. Bergen hated it and I loved it."

Since this was the picture in which the ventriloquist loses his mind to the superior intellect of his dummy, it's easy to understand that reaction.

"As a matter of fact," Bergen edged back into the conversation, "I did think that was a swell episode and I'd always had a yen to try something along those lines. For some years I've owned Ben Hecht's play about a similar incident, 'The Great Gabbo,' but we've never made it because Charlie and I are such good friends.

As you can read from the above, the duo is indistinguishable. But you'll be able to see for yourself Sunday night at Uline Arena when Edgar, Charlie and the train-riding Mortimer are joined by Bing Crosby for Bergen's Sunday night broadcast. It's bound to be a grand show—with Ray Noble, his band and Anita Gordon on deck before, during and after the network half-hour. Though the broadcast proceedings begin at 7:30, it probably will be a good idea to get there earlier.

Tickets for the broadcast, as well as for the National Celebrities Golf Tournament, which has brought Bergen and his boys here, are on sale today in The Washington Post lobby, the Fairway Sports Shop, 1328 G st., and the Uline Arena, 3d and M sts. ne., from 10:30 to 6. On Sunday the Post lobby ticket office will be open from noon to 5 and the Uline ticket office will be open from noon until the broadcast.

DON'T TELL A SOUL, but Bing Crosby is in for a surprise at the golf tournament. He'll find Anita Colby in the crowd of celebrities.

Anita's had a fabulous career. Old Washingtonians remember her as Cartoonist Bud Counihan's daughter, Kathryn, when she was going to McKinley Tech and Miss Madeira's School. Her first modeling job was for fashion teas at Woody's, which eventually led to her becoming a Conover model.

Katherine Brush made the classic remark about Anita as a model: "All John Powers models look like Anita Counihan to me." And Quentin Reynolds tagged her "The Face."

"The Emperor Waltz"

Hollywood then took over, a neck of the woods which since gave her a new name—Colby—and a new position—that of a full-fledged Paramount executive. That latter probably was the smartest move a beautiful girl ever made. Any number of gorgeous-looking dolls struggle along from one part to another, but what becomes of 'em? Anita thought about all this during an appendectomy convalescence. The decision has tossed her into some fast movie company, where The Face still misleads some into thinking the girl can't have much to back it up.

So—don't tell Bing Anita's still here. He thinks she's already off spreading the good word about his next picture, "The Emperor Waltz," which is, Anita insists, "not an operetta at all, even though it is set in the Viennese court of Franz Josef and does have songs in ballrooms and things." It's incredible double-talk Anita gives you about Bing's picture, but there you are.

Edgar, his boys, and Anita and her razzle-dazzle are two of the show world's people who'll be making the sports fans and Tom Clark's youngsters happy this weekend.

Churchill Cites Another Delay Costly in War

New York, May 14 (AP).—Winston Churchill says in the sixth installment of his memoirs that Britain delayed wartime steps to cut off German access to vital Swedish iron ore until it was too late.

Britain's wartime Prime Minister relates how diplomatic indecision held up action to curb German commerce with the Scandinavian countries until the day Norway was invaded in April, 1940.

Germany's war industry, he wrote, was based mainly on the iron obtained from Sweden.

Churchill said he first proposed in September, 1939, that steps be taken to stop movement of German vessels through Norwegian territorial waters, which were in a neutral corridor beyond the British naval blockade.

Prolonged dickering with the French government, however, delayed such moves, which involved minelaying in Norwegian harbors, Churchill wrote.

Parisius Quits; Accused of Favoring Reds

By the United Press

Herbert W. Parisius, a Commerce Department official recently criticized in Congress in connection with Russian trade, announced his resignation yesterday.

A foreign trade expert, Parisius was accused of having approved shipments of "war potential" goods to Russia. He said he actually was preparing a program at the time to tighten up on Soviet shipments and denied he had any Communist sympathies.

A native of Wisconsin, he held Agriculture and Commerce Department jobs under Henry A. Wallace when he was head of those agencies. He said he was going fishing in Wisconsin for two months and then decide which of a number of private job offers he will accept.

Hartley Threatens Action on Lewis

Milwaukee, May 14 (AP).—If no peaceful decision on a new coal contract has been reached by June 15 when Congress is due to recess, Representative Hartley (R., N. J.) plans to ask lawmakers to stay in session.

The coauthor of the Taft-Hartley Act told his plans to the Wisconsin Manufacturers' Association last night.

Hartley also proposed applying antitrust laws to John L. Lewis or any other labor leaders "bigger than the Nation."

Hartley said the Taft-Hartley law does not go "as far as it should." He said his subcommittee would investigate into the possible outlawing of union shop elections and strikes that affect public health and safety. Union practices in bargaining for welfare and pension funds also will be probed, he said.

Militia Called Out to Protect Meat Plants

Newport, Minn., May 14 (AP).—National Guard troops mobilized at two armories late today for duty at the Cudahy packing plant here where an invading mob of 200 men slugged workers and damaged property.

Troops also were designated for duty at Swift and Armour plants at South St. Paul across the Mississippi River. At the Swift plant yesterday, pickets drove off police when they attempted to enforce a court order forbidding mass picketing.

The raiders entered the Cudahy plant shortly before midnight Thursday, routed company police, tore out a front gate telephone and rushed the quarters where about 50 workers were sleeping.

Cots were overturned, telephones ripped from their cords, windows broken and several offices damaged, H. W. Reister, plant superintendent, said.

About 30 of the workers were taken as hostages when the raiders left, Reister said. Today all but one had been accounted for. Reister did not disclose the names of the hostages, saying he feared reprisals.

In Ancker (city) Hospital in St. Paul, however, two of the workers described the attack.

Vernon Spaulding, 44, and Earl Heier, 32, both of Webster, Wis., who were hired by the plant yesterday, said "we had to run the gantlet of the mob" to get out of the sleeping quarters. "All of them were swinging clubs at our heads."

Spaulding and Heier are suffering severe head injuries, hospital attendants said.

Union Bans Red Officers

Boston, May 14 (AP). — Communists were barred today from office in the Steelworkers, the biggest CIO union, whose officers have refused for 10 months to sign affidavits swearing they are not Communists.

The convention of the 928,000-member union swept away the opposition of one delegate, who asked who would judge a Communist. It applauded others who turned blasts against "crummy Commies" and "agents of the Kremlin."

Phone Strike Could Be Called In Week, Union Estimates

New York, May 14 (AP).—A strike of 25,000 long-distance telephone operators could be called in a week or less, a spokesman for the CIO American Union of Telephone Workers said today.

The "week or less" estimate was made today despite a previous union statement that at least two weeks would be necessary before arrangements could be made to put a strike into effect.

Meanwhile a Federal mediator prepared to meet here with American Telephone & Telegraph Co. long lines officials to "discuss all possibilities. He said he did not know whether the conference would lead to a resumption of joint mediation sessions.

The union laid plans yesterday for a 42-state walkout over wage-hour and other contract demands. No date has been set for a strike.

going to achieve the ideals of Woodrow Wilson and that "we are going to make it work."

"What have the Republicans done for the last 15½ years? They have been obstructionists and most of the time while I was in the Senate—now that's 10 years—in obstructing progressive legislation thas was for the welfare of the common man, and throwing bricks and mud at the greatest President that has ever sat in the White House.

"That is their record, and they haven't changed a bit—they haven't changed a bit. They were against social security, they were against a farm program.

"I've often wondered what a so-called liberal Republican thinks. In election year they call him out, pat him on the back, send him around the country to make speeches in support of a platform he doesn't believe. And just as soon as the election is over they put him back in the doghouse and he votes for the Democrats the rest of the time."

He accused the Republicans of violating their 1944 platform promise by emasculating the Labor Department, and he charged that they took away the appropriation of the Bureau of Labor Statistics because they were afraid of hasing the country see where prices were going.

"They're not satisfied to take the brakes off prices," he said, amid laughter, "but they tore the speedometer out of the car so they couldn't see how fast we're going."

He said he wondered what the country really wants.

"Does the country really want an administration under Republican control working for special interests, for higher prices, for greater profits, for fewer jobs, which will eventually end in boom and bust?" he asked. "Do you recken they want the Republican program?"

"Or do they want the Democratic Administration which is working for the welfare of the country as a whole, which is willing to assume leadership where leadership is necessary, an administration which is looking after the welfare of the common people as the Democratic Party has always done?

"You Young Democrats . . . must see the light and you must see that the people of this country see the light."

Bakery Wage Dispute Conferences Continue

Federal Conciliator James Holden said yesterday he will hold another union-management meeting at 9 a. m. today in the wage dispute between 1200 local bakery workers and their employers.

At the same time, the union, Local 118 of the Bakers Union, scheduled a strategy meeting for members this afternoon.

Union negotiators have turned down an offer of the Employing Bakers Association for a 12½-cent hourly increase, standing by a demand for 50 cents.

Construction Strike Threat Eases Here

The threat of a strike Monday by some 1500 AFL public works construction men was eased yesterday when employer and worker representatives tentatively agreed on a basis for a wage settlement.

Federal Conciliator James Holden said negotiators for both the Washington Public Works Contractors Association and Local 456, Road, Highway and Heavy Construction Laborers, took the compromise wage formula under consideration. The action came at a meeting with Holden.

Raschi Snaps A's Streak at 10 With 3-Hitter, 3-0

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

THE SCREWBALL phase of tomorrow's National Celebrities Golf Tournament was assured with Henry Morgan's reluctant acceptance of an invitation to compete. "I am reluctant to compete, what time do I tee off? Oh boy!" said Morgan.

POVICH

Comic Morgan yesterday greeted the tournament committee with his patented television leer which he lately realized he had been wasting for years on the radio. He led the gentlemen into his Statler Hotel suite, surveyed the lot of 'em, and remarked sweetly, "Stuffy in here, or it will be shortly, don't you think?"

He made his way to his dressing table, withdrew a small gadget with protruding wick, applied a match, and stepped back to behold the whole experiment grandly while the delegation gaped. "Beg your pardon," said Morgan, "I was just lighting up my incense of humor."

That is only a milder type of Morgan gag. He's the original headache boy of his radio and television sponsors. Right now he is on special loan to the tournament and the after-show Edgar Bergen broadcast at Uline Arena tomorrow night by courtesy of his Admiral Corp. sponsors.

WHEN HE TAKES the air, Morgan is never sure that he isn't going to get the air at the close of his show. He's been fired by so many sponsors whose products he has kidded that he describes himself now as a severance-pay addict, "let the jive boys keep their marihuana. Severance pay gives you just as big a lift."

Just to give you an idea about this guy Morgan. He lost one account last year because of his irrepressible urge to give his sponsor's products the whole works. "And as for Ganfalon's Enormous Liver Pills," he radioed, "if they don't work, we not only guarantee your money back, but also your liver back. Really, we have no use for it." Not only that, he said, but Ganfalon's Liver Pills were now available in various sizes, according to the size of your liver.

The Admiral people, for whom Morgan is working at least this week, have released him for his Washington engagements in the custody of Mr. Robert Enders, of the Enders Agency, who is sweating it out. "I want to meet Mr. Bitter Enders in person," says Morgan. "He plays it straight."

Morgan is 32 years old, a native New Yorker, who says he was born of mixed parentage—"a man and a woman." His birth, in fact, was a scoop, he says. The event occurred just after midnight on March 31—"a clean 24-hour beat on April Fool's Day." It is reported that his first infant cry was traced to his first glimpse of a stuffed shirt. He's been de-stuffing 'em ever since.

He's no dope. Talks four languages and can quote the classics. He's the master of the ad lib. His present television show is probably the only unrehearsed big-time show on the coaxial cables. He wowed 'em at the National Press Club the other day when Washington correspondents pitched questions at him dealing with the State of the Union and internatinoal affairs.

What he couldn't answer directly he parried very cutely like the one they asked him about President Truman: "If you were President Truman what would you do about the revolt of the Southern Democrats?" Morgan scraped his beard thoughtfully for 2½ seconds and came up with: "If I were President Truman I would count how many convention votes I had in the bag, and then act accordingly."

He was a riot in radio, but television is a heaven-sent dish for Morgan. It permits him to exploit his built-in leer and affectation of being a sourpuss. The other day, for instance, he was doing the commercial for the refrigerator company and patiently explaining 'the two-way door—it opens and shuts as you can plainly see," he demonstrated.

His is the brashest show on the air. Station owners have learned to hold their breath when he's on. After a preprogram row with executives of WCR, he gleefully related the whole squabble in detail to his radio audience and auctioned off the whole network, station by station, vice president by vice president for $83 including good will. The announcers he sold by pairs "so they wouldn't be lonely."

After accepting the invitation to compete at Columbia Club tomorrow, he excused himself brusquely, explaining that he must closet himself with his newest invention. "As of this minute, gentlemen, I am working on my new seeing-eye, cup-wise golf ball. Good day."

Pimlico, Md., May 14.—Citation, Calumet Farm's big bad wolf who frightens men who own race horses, was licking his chops tonight, for on the morrow he is scheduled to gobble up the $100,000 added Preakness.

Upwards of 40,000 tender and calloused turf fans are expected for seventy-second running of the Preakness and are slated to install Citation as a 1 to 10 favorite over three ambitious colts, although there's a chance that the "beat-the-favorite" craze may "up" the Calumet Comet's odds as was the case in the Kentucky Derby.

Hoping to get close enough to be in the newspaper photographs of the finish will be S. W. Labrot, jr's Bovard, C. V. Whitney's Vulcan's Forge and King Ranch's Better Self—a trio which can hardly be beaten off as thoroughly as were My Request, Grand Pere, Billings and Escadru in the Derby.

Missing because there's a better boy in the Calumet barn will be Coaltown. He was going to be shipped here for insurance but the Joneses—father Ben and son Jimmy—finally decided Citation didn't need a pacemaker.

Eddie Arcaro, who became the Derby champion with his fourth winner, will be aboard Citation.

The Kentucky boy, aiming for his second Preakness victory, hopes to gain the second leg on the triple crown—it's the Belmont next—with the Calumet Cannonball.

As this is written the racing strip is muddier and sloppier than the ground around the lemonade stand after the Sunday school picnic.

However, mud and "off" tracks seem to make little difference to Citation. Trainer Jimmy Jones brought out this morning that Citation has not run on a fast track since leaving Florida last winter. It was in the mud that he trucked to his Derby victory and it was on a soft track that he towroped the field in the Pimlico Futurity.

But there were some who expected a rigged track to work against him, reminding all that Havre de Grace was heavy as lead when Saggy sprinted home ahead of Citation in the now famous "Hefty-was-in-the-way" Chesapeake Trial.

Citation will be opposed by two colts, who, while they hardly can be accused of liking mud mixed with their oats, are not at sea in the soggy going.

Bovard, aiming to be Maryland's first home-bred preakness success since Challedon, would be at home, having been second to Citation in the Chesapeake's rough track running and having won the Louisiana Derby on a similar strip.

Better Self is another with good mud races, including his second to Citation in the Futurity here last autumn. Vulcan's Forge is of unknown quality, having yet to perform on other than a fast strip.

Success would bring Citation's earnings to $423,700 for less than two seasons of competition. This will be his eighteenth start and he aims for victory No. 16.

The Preakness crowd will have only one position on which to bet—win. The Maryland Racing Commission put out a pamphlet on "why" this morning, explaining the State would lose money along with the track if place betting were allowed, etc.

Post time for the first race will be 2 p. m. with the daily double closing at 1:45. All reserved seats and boxes have been sold for weeks, I'm told.

Sales of admission tickets will begin at 9 a. m. Infield mutuel windows will be opened and the management will not have a steeplechase to interfere with those who want to take refuge in the centerfield.

"INCLUDE ME IN"—That's the way Comedian Henry Morgan accepted his invitation to the National Celebrities Golf Tournament yesterday. Ice Queen Due at 2

After Barbara Ann's Arrival Comes Deluge—Of Celebrities

By Morris Siegel,
Post Reporter

Washington, where stranger things have happened, indulges in a little star-gazing at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

This astronomical oddity takes place at National Airport. The exposure of all eyes will be Barbara Ann Scott, the curvaceous Canadian cutie who's queen of the ice skating world.

Coming here for the National Celebrities Golf Tournament at Columbia Country Club tomorrow, the petite idol of the Dominion will be greeted by a host of local admirers, including Canadian Ambassador and Mrs. H. Hume Wrong.

The arrival of Barbara Ann, who will serve as a scorer at Sunday's tournament, will be preceded by that of Comedian Henry Morgan and Babe Didrikson, the woman athlete par excellence, and followed by that of the many other celebrities in the star-studded field.

Bing Crosby is due to pitch camp before dark and rest up for a busy day which will include his round of golf in the "Celebrities" and a guest appearance on the Edgar Bergen broadcast Sunday evening at Uline Arena.

Three of Notre Dame's four horsemen, Don Miller, Jimmy Crowley and Elmer Layden, are galloping in from three different directions.

Eddie Arcaro, a horseman of another sort who will play with the Irish greats, checks in around 10 p. m. to finish celebrating his expected Preakness victory aboard Citation today.

The procession of arrivals continues until 9:30 Sunday morning when that celebrated grammarian and former pitcher, Dizzy Dean, checks in.

Babe Didrikson will arrive in time to act as starter for the National Capital Mile at the "C" Club's annual track meet today at 3 p. m. She also will be on hand for the Meadowbrook Horse Show Sunday morning at 10:30.

Anita ("The Face") Colby, glamorous movie figure, yesterday added her name to the list of celebrities who will be in the big show. She's replacing Miss America, Barbara Jo Walker, of Memphis, who is confined to her home with a cold.

The National Broadcasting System, which airs the Sunday night Bergen broadcast, yesterday asked that parents be reminded not to bring babies in arms to the Uline Arena show. It's a radio rule of long standing that must be enforced, NBC officials advised.

Presentation of trophies to the various winners in the golf tournament will be made on the 18th green at Columbia.

Wismer Interviews Celebrities Tonight

Harry Wismer, ABC sports commentator who will be master of ceremonies at Sunday's National Celebrities Golf Tournament, will originate his coast-to-coast program here tonight.

Wismer will interview Jack Kramer, Bobby Riggs, Babe Didrikson and an all-star cast which will be heard locally on Station WMAL at 6:30 o'clock.

Pafko's Homer Wins for Cubs

Chicago, May 14 (AP).—Andy Pafko hammered his third home run of the season deep into the left field bleachers to give Russ Meyer and the Chicago Cubs a 1-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds today before a Ladies Day crowd of 10,510.

Kent Peterson, youthful southpaw, went down the line with Meyer in a scoreless duel until the eighth inning when Pafko delivered the decisive blow. It was one of eight hits off the little lefthander.

Meyer, a 24-year-old righthander in his second season with the Cubs, allowed only four hits in registering his second successive shutout and fanned eight. It was his third victory against one loss. His successes all have been spectacular performances.

Lindell, Berra Slam Homers to Beat Scheib

New York, May 14 (AP).—Home runs by Johnny Lindell and Logi Berra and three-hit pitching by Vic Raschi ended the 10-game-winning streak of the Philadelphia Athletics today and brought the New York Yankees a 3-0 triumph.

The victory, the Yanks' fifth straight, moved them to within four percentage points of the second-place Cleveland Indians and to within a half game of the pace-setting Athletics.

Raschi, in going the route for the first time this season, had excellent support afield especially from Outfielders Charley Keller, Joe DiMaggio and Lindell.

First Hit in Fifth

The big right-hander held the Athletics hitless until Hank Majeski singled behind a walk to Ferris Fain in the fifth inning.

Sam Chapman beat out a double for the A's second hit in the eighth and Barney McCosky doubled for the A's final blow in the ninth.

Raschi walked only three and fanned seven, including the side in the ninth, to gain his second win.

Lindell Slams Two-Run Homer

In the third inning with Bobby Brown on base and two out, Lindell banged a 3-1 pitch into the left-field stands to bring in the Yanks' first two tallies.

Berra led off the fourth inning with a homer and Scheib then settled down and held the Yanks hitless the rest of the way.

Eddie Joost, shortstop and sparkplug of the A's, went hitless to snap his consecutive hitting streak covering 17 games.

Sanford Beats Hutch For Brownies, 3 to 0

Detroit, May 14 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers came home from the East today to run smack back into the victory drought that has steadily postponed their first win of the season at Briggs Stadium.

Righthander Fred Sanford of the St. Louis Browns bested Freddie Hutchinson with 5-hit pitching as the Brownies waltzed to a 3 to 0 triumph, cracking their own four-game losing streak and handing Detroit its sixth successive setback at home.

Sanford's triumph was his fourth this year against two losses.

Kramer, Riggs Play Tonight in Uline Rematch

Jack Kramer and Bobby Riggs meet tonight at Uline Arena as they hit the homestretch of their Nation-wide tour.

With Kramer holding a prohibitive advantage in their matches to date, 61 to 19, Riggs will be out to salvage a measure of prestige he lost before 6300 fans here in January.

In that match, played while their series was still in its infancy, Kramer plastered Riggs with a straight set, 6-2, 6-2, trouncing.

Kramer's easy victory that night presaged what was to come. From that time on, Kramer defeated Riggs with monotonous consistency and now holds a 3-1 victory ratio over the little pro titleholder.

In the preliminary singles match, colorful Pancho Segura and Australian champion Dinny Pails will meet at 8:30 p. m. in a two-of-three set singles encounter and Kramer and Segura face Riggs-Pails in the windup doubles event.

All except Riggs will play in the National Celebrities Golf Tournament Sunday.

Nats Obtain Stewart in Deal For Culberson

Special Dispatch to The Post

Boston, May 14.—The Nats were idle today on account of rain, but Clark Griffith wasn't. He busied himself with buying another outfielder for his ball club and delivered Ed Stewart of the Yankees to Manager Joe Kuhel.

Stewart, a .358 hitter with Kansas City last year, was obtained from the Yankees in a swap that involved Outfielder Leon Culberson and an undisclosed amount of cash. Culberson is ticketed for the Yankees' Kansas City farm.

It marked the second deal in three days to bring a new outfielder to the Nats. On Wednesday, Griffith dipped into the high minors for Outfielder Garden Gillenwater of the Milwaukee Club at the expense of dipping into his own pocket for $30,000.

Left-Handed Hitter

Previously, the Nats had sought Hank Bauer, a teammate of Stewart's last year at Kansas City, but they settled for Stewart when the Yankees balked at selling Bauer.

Stewart is 31, a left-handed hitter and right-handed thrower. He was with the Yankees in spring training but was used only as a pinch-hitter since the season started, making one hit in four times at bat.

He was the second-leading hitter in the American Association last year, losing the title to Heinz Becker. He led the league in doubles and triples and hit seven homers.

The refurbished Washington outfield will present newcomers Stewart and Gillenwater against the Red Sox tomorrow afternoon, with Gil Coan in left field the only relic of the outfield that opened the season for the Nats.

"Both Gillenwater and Stewart figure in our style of baseball," said Kuhel. "They have speed on the bases, and the reports we have on them are that defensively they are good. They're big enough to have power, too."

Culberson May Quit

The release of Culberson, who was obtained by the Nats from the Red Sox in last winter's Stan Spence deal, was forecast following his weak hitting this year. He has batted only .172 for the Nats.

Culberson reportedly is balking at returning to the minors, with hints that he will return to his pro golf business in Rome, Ga., but that would not nullify the deal, according to both clubs. Griffith would turn over another outfielder to Kansas City.

The pitching program for tomorrow's delayed opener of the three-game series remains the same with Walter Masterson scheduled to oppose Joe Dobson, Boston right-hander.

Pollet, Musial Beat Bucs, 2-1

St. Louis, May 14 (AP).—A two-run homer by Stan Musial and some fancy clutch pitching by Howie Pollet enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to down the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2 to 1, tonight and regain second place in the National League.

The Pirates solved Pollet for 10 hits, all singles, while the Cardinals obtained but 4 off 40-year-old Fritz Ostermueller.

Bert Haas' Skull Shown Fractured

Philadelphia, May 14 (AP).—Bert Haas, veteran Philadelphia Phillies infielder, has a fractured skull.

This was disclosed today at Temple University after X-ray photos were taken. Haas was hit by a batted ball in practice last week in St. Louis.

Dr. Glen Gibson and Dr. Richard Sonntag said they would decide tomorrow morning whether an operation will be necessery.

Four Post 69's In Phila. Golf

Philadelphia, May 14 (AP).—Juicy fairways and 103-sand traps were no protection for par today as a quartet of golfers traveled the first round of the Philadelphia Inquirer $15,000 invitation tourney in 69 strokes, three below regulation figures.

Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa.; George Schneiter of Ogden, Utah; Dr. Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, and Bobby Locke of Johannesburg, South Africa, all tramped the 6670 yards of the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club as if it were a paved street.

Today's low 62 shooters will fire another 18-hole round tomorrow with two more rounds set for Sunday. The 72-hole affair, which had an original entry list of 193, was telescoped into three days when Thursday's opening frame was postponed because of flooded fairways.

Third Walter Johnson School Session Will Be Held Today

If Johnny and Jack are missing from home at 9 a. m. today, don't be alarmed, mothers, because they'll be at session No. 3 of the Walter Johnson Memorial Baseball Schools.

This is third class of the highly popular baseball school where kids receive expert instruction in all phases of baseball from the Nats, former pro, college and high school players.

The Nats won't be there today, but there'll be plenty of other instructors to lend a hand at the session. Registration is docketed for 9 a. m., with actual classes getting started an hour later.

Today's classes are very important in that the Walter Johnson Leagues will be tentatively organized. League play begins June 12.

Mrs. Lichtenwalner Wins Washington Post Cup Tourney

Today at Central

C Club Track Meet Lists 517 Entries

The "C" Club track meet takes place for the thirteenth straight year 1 p. m. today at Central High Stadium.

Although the National High School Federation has blacklisted the meet, a record 517 entries from 27 schools have been received. Because high and prep school boys compete against each other, the federation has barred its member-schools.

Proceeds of the meet, sanctioned by the District A. A. U., go toward paying expenses of the United States Olympic team.

Two of the feature attractions will be Tommy Quinn, former National A. A. U. mile champion, and Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, the greatest American woman athlete of all time.

Quinn will run in the special National Capital mile run, in which distance men from Quantico and the Bethesda Naval Hospital are also entered.

The Babe, who won the high hurdles and javelin events in the 1932 Olympics, will be official starter in the National Capital mile at 3 p. m.

Mercersburg, Pa., Academy is back to defend its championship with a team of 25. Eastern, strong in the sprints, hurdles, and shot and discus, is considered most likely of the District Interhigh schools to bring the champion ship back to Washington for the first time since 1935.

Other schools entered are Central, St. John's, Anacostia, Roosevelt, Georgetown Prep, Calvin Coolidge, Hilder Prep, Western, Woodrow Wilson, McKinley Tech and Sidwell Friends of Washington; Fork Union, Woodberry Forest, Episcopal of Alexandria, Staunton, of Virginia; Greenbrier of West Virginia; Bel Air, Mt. St. Joseph's, Patterson Park, Baltimore Poly, Forest Park Bullis Baltimore City and Gilman Country School of Maryland.

Mrs. Mitchell 2d in Golf Field of 62

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

Mrs. J. Y. Lichtenwalner, of Army-Navy, finished first in a field of 62 golfers to win The Washington Post Class B golf championship yesterday at Army-Navy.

Playing over the hilly, rain-drenched course, Mrs. Lichtenwalner's 103-22—87 was two strokes better than the 102-19—83 turned in by Mrs. R. C. Mitchell, of Kenwood.

Mrs. Mitchell also finished in a tie for low gross with Mrs. C. P. Redick of Kenwood. Since Mrs. Mitchell won the prize for second low net, Mrs. Redick was awarded the low gross trophy.

Mrs. Werber Third

Third low net went to Columbia's Mrs. William Werber, with 107-23—84, and four women turned in net scores of 85.

After matching cards, Mrs. H. M. Nelson of Washington Golf and Country Club, 109-24—85, took fourth prize; Mrs. R. L. Hutchison, Washington, 107-22—85, was fifth; Mrs. D. R. Monsees, Washington, 108-23—85, was sixth and Mrs. C. A. Jostes, Kenwood, 105-20—85, was named seventh-place winner.

First Area Triumph

Mrs. Walter Dinsmore of Belle Haven, 106-20—86, won the eighth and final prize with 106-20—86 after matching cards with Mrs. G. R. Levy, Prince Georges, 104-18—86, and Mrs. J. H. Kerr, Kenwood, 106-20—86. Mrs. Levy, incidentally, won last year's tournament.

The triumph was Mrs. Lichtenwalner's first in Women's District Golf Association play since her arrival here from California last August. She had an outgoing nine-hole score of 51 and came in in 52. Her 22 handicap gave her the edge over Mrs. Mitchell, whose rounds of 50 and 52 fell short when her 19-stroke handicap was deducted.

Mrs. Lady Wins At Washington

Mrs. Howard Lady won yesterday's 18-hole handicap golf tournament against par at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

Mrs. Lady shot a 104—25—79, to finish 1 down. Second was Mrs. Charles Egenroad, 94—13—81, 4 down to par, and third was Mrs. E. M. Norton, 101—17—84, 6 down.

Two Boys Tie With 74s in School Golf

Stanley Mouser of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School and William Beach of Fairfax High shot 74s to tie for the medal in the qualifying round of the fifteenth annual Scholastic Golf Championship yesterday at Manor Country Club.

A field of 106 entries, largest in the tournament's history, battled for the 16 berths in the first flight.

Two rounds of match play are slated today at Manor, with the four surviving semi-finalists competing in the National Celebrities Tournament Sunday at Columbia Country Club.

The final round, for the Washington Post Cup, will be held Monday at Chevy Chase Club.

Despite the fine scores turned in by Mouser and Beach, both 17, two other lads shared the spotlight with the co-medalists.

In third place was 13-year-old Billy D. Wolfe of Montgomery Hills Junior High, with a 75, while Ed Burnap of Bethesda, who was taught to play only last summer by Columbia Country Club Pro Freddie McLeod, had an 80 to finish among the leaders.

Walter Murphy, Gonzaga; Richard Foster, Coolidge; George Huguely, Friends; Bob Miller, Tech; Ed DeHority, Western, and Joe Sullivan, Bethesda, finished in a tie with 83s.

Since only four berths remained open in the first flight, the six boys had to play off, and DeHority and Sullivan lost out.

They will play together with all of the 84, 85 and 86 finishers in the second flight tournament a week from today at Georgetown Prep. Pairings for the second flight will be announced later this week.

Scattered Wins in Oaks

Pimlico, Md., May 14.—King Ranch's Scattered, a daughter of Whirlaway, ran like a chip off the old block today and won the twenty-fifth running of the $15,000 added Pimlico Oaks, annual 3-year-old filly test, by 10 lengths.

Brookfield farm's Itsabet was second and four lengths in advance of Charlton Clay's Lea Lark in a field of nine. A Preakness-eve crowd of 14,114 saw the battle of a mile and a sixteenth.

Scattered made it two victories in the historic stake for King Ranch which took the event last year with But Why Not. Jockey Warren Mehrtens, of triple crown fame with Assault, was aboard both winners.

The filly, technically a Maryland-bred because her dam, Imperatrice, was in this State when she was foaled, took down $14,550 in earnings to bring her season's total to $20,550. It was Scattered's second victory of the year.

The winner paid $6 as a lightly-played favorite and was clocked in 1.50 3-5 for the route.

Chapel Hill, N. C., May 14 (AP).—William and Mary's defending Southern Conference tennis champions made a determined bid for new laurels here today by gaining three semifinals berths in singles competition in the annual tournament.

Mundt Anti-Red Bill Debated in House

The House late yesterday concluded general debate on the Un-American Activities Committee's Mundt Bill, designed to rigidly control communism without technically outlawing it.

A rule making the bill in order was adopted by the overwhelming vote of 296 to 40. For five hours the legislation was defended as a checkmate to communism and attacked as a repudiation of "full and free democracy."

Voting on amendments and final action on the bill were postponed until Tuesday. House passage seemed assured.

There has been no Senate committee consideration and the outcome in that body is uncertain.

Hits at Front Groups

While the bill doesn't outlaw the Communist Party, activities in behalf of a Communist dictatorship are outlawed and subjected to heavy fines and jail sentences. The Communist Party would have to register with the Justice Department, file an annual financial accounting, and give the names of its officers and members. Communist-front organizations would also have to register, but names of members would not be required.

Another provision denies passports and nonelective Government jobs to Communists, and requires Communists to label written and radio propaganda as coming from a Communist source.

Mundt Opens Debate

Convictions for trying to set up a totalitarian dictatorship would be subject to 10 years in jail, a $10,000 fine and loss of citizenship.

Opening debate on the measure, Representative Karl E. Mundt (R., S. Dak.) said the bill in effect would say to the Communist Party:

"You claim to be a political party. We are requiring you to act like a political party. Stand up and be counted."

Representative John McDowell (R., Pa.) read a statement from Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.), of the Un-American Activities Committee, who is ill. Thomas called the Communist Party "nothing more nor less than a fifth column arm of the Soviet union" and said the bill would provide "a fair yet adequate" defense against it.

Marcantonio Leads Opposition

Ninety minutes were allotted to the opposition and Representative Vito Marcantonio (ALP, N. Y.) was put in charge of parceling it out. First opposition speaker was Representative Frank Buchanan (D., Pa.). Buchanan called the bill "too broad" and said it used the "smear technique."

Representative Walter A. Lynch (D., N. Y.), the next speaker, said Congress should legislate against the "cause" of communism instead of the "economic result."

Representative Leo Isaacson (A. L., N. Y.), elected with Wallace third party support, said the bill is aimed "not against the bugaboo of communism but rather against the prospect . . . of full and free democracy in America."

Too Weak, Cox Declares

Representative E. E. Cox (D., Ga.) said the measure seeks to drive into the open "the domestic agents of our foreign foe" and in his opinion did not go far enough.

Representative Richard B. Vail (R., Ill.) termed it a "knockout blow at subversive organizations and individuals" but Representative Adolph J. Sabath (D., Ill.) called it "a bill of attainder" that would "nullify the freedoms."

House Rules Chairman Leo Allen (R., Ill.) said it would expose communism in the same manner manufacturers of poison are required to label their products, but Representative Chet Holifield (R., Calif.) called it a "Hitler thought-control bill."

Arias Takes Lead In Returns From Panama Election

Panama City, Panama, May 14 (U.P.).—Opposition candidate Arnulfo Arias forged ahead today on the basis of incomplete returns from last Sunday's presidential election.

Tabulations from 153 out of the country's 575 precincts gave Arias, nominee of the Authentic Revolutionary Party, 25,158 votes; government candidate Domingo Diaz Arosemena 22,985 and Jose I. Fabrega, of the National Revolutionary Party, 13,083.

Arias' big gain today was in Panama City where he increased his margin over Diaz, with 8603 votes to Diaz's 3414.

Slaying of Mays Confessed and went on to Council Bluffs, Iowa, just across the Missouri River.

"I hung around Council Bluffs all day and read in the newspapers that the bodies and the car had been found," Warden Best quoted him, "and then I got a job with a carnival and stayed around Council Bluffs and Iowa several days."

He said he moved on through Arkansas and Missouri to Texas where, in midautumn he "threw away the gun and travelers' checks."

He joined another carnival in Texas and with that carnival drifted into northern Colorado where he was arrested

Several days ago, according to the Associated Press, Omaha authorities quizzed him on the May case. A lie-detector led them to believe they were about to crack the case, Warden Best said. The actual confession came yesterday morning, he said, after the Nebraska officers had gone home.

The office of Sheriff William Dorrance was quick to point out two seeming discrepancies in the McClelland confession. The Mays were shot through the head and not through the back, as McClelland reportedly told Best. The sheriff's office also said the Mays were not carrying $300, according to their information.

May, grandson of Robert L. May, owner of the A., B. & W. bus lines, was employed in the company's public relations office. He married the former Elizabeth Piele of Fairlington, Va., only six months before their deaths. He attended Alexandria public schools, Nine bodies were recovered from the demolished superfortress which crashed three days ago while on a flight to Germany. Four soldiers reported aboard were missing.

The survivor, a radio operator, was rushed back across the desert toward Dhahran, 120 miles away, for medical treatment. The extent of his injuries was not known.

The plane carried a crew of 13 soldiers and a soldier passenger when it left Dhahran,

Vandenberg Guarded After Call

By the Associated Press

Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) was guarded by Capitol police late Thursday and yesterday morning after his office received an anonymous telephone call that "he'd better circle around."

Arthur Vandenberg, jr., said his father, frequently mentioned as a presidential possibility, "was not the least bit alarmed." He said the Capitol police insisted on giving the Senator a guard until noon yesterday.

This is the story related by young Vandenberg:

About noon Thursday, a stenographer in Vandenberg's office answered the telephone and a voice said:

"This is the guard, tell Arthur he'd better circle around. He'll know what I mean."

Young Vandenberg called the guard to see what the call meant—but the guard denied making the call.

"At that point," said young Vandenberg, "the guard became alarmed.

"They insisted father have a guard during the rest of the day. The guard stayed on duty until noon today."

He said "we don't consider there is any cause for alarm."

Long Arm in Jury Gambling Probe Promised by Fay

All U. S. Is Field, He Says in Reply To D. C. Reports of Big Shots' Exodus

The grand jury being called to investigate gambling in the District will be empowered and prepared to call in witnesses "from every corner" of the United States, United States Attorney George Morris Fay declared yesterday.

This district attorney issued the statement in response to reports that big-shot gamblers, leery of the special grand jury, are beating it out of town, to keep out of sight until the storm blows over.

When asked if the district attorney could reach any gamblers or other witnesses who might be needed the grand jury, Fay replied:

"The strongest weapon I know of is a Federal subpena. If we happen to need any of these people, we are empowered to and will send subpenas to every corner of the territorial limits of the United States to get these people."

And if the persons wanted for questions should head out for Cuba and Mexico, as it is being rumored hereabouts?

In that case, the grand jury subpena will be awaiting them the minute they step foot back on United States shores, said Fay.

The special grand jury of 23—the first ever to be selected here in a drive against gambling activities—will be picked Monday morning in District Court from 100 veniremen, whose names have been kept secret.

Already confusion has hit the Capital's highly organized numbers racket, with some operators severing business activities without notice to their runners.

Police Place Bets, Arrest Quick Lunch Dishwasher

Metropolitan police vice squad members yesterday dropped in at Sam's Quick Lunch, 1226 H st. nw., placed a series of numbers bets, using marked slips and marked money, and arrested John R. Green, 36, of 760 Girard st. nw., a dishwasher.

Green was charged with operating a lottery and possessing lottery slips. He faces Police Court action this morning.

Evins Charged In Shooting of Wife and Baby

Formal charges of assault with intent to kill were placed yesterday against Herman D. Evins, Government worker, held in the shooting of his wife and 13-month-old son.

Evins, who surrendered to police Thursday morning, had been held on an open charge pending outcome of the condition of the two shooting victims. Police decided to file formal charges after learning that both apparently were out of danger.

The 32-year-old Army veteran appeared briefly before Judge Hugh Reid in Arlington Police Court, but a preliminary hearing on the charges was continued for two weeks at the judge's suggestion, when he learned that Evins was not represented by counsel.

Informed by Judge Reid of the charge against him, Evins commented, "I don't like the idea of the charge that I intended to kill my baby." He made no reference to the assault on his wife.

After the brief hearing, Judge Reid set bond at $20,000—$10,000 on each of the two assault charges. The figure was set on the recommendation of Commonwealth Attorney Denman T. Rucker, who said he was "inclined to ask a very high bond until we are certain both of the victims will survive."

In contrast to his unkempt, shirtless appearance when he surrendered to police, Evins appeared in court clean-shaven and wearing a natty blue suit and sport shirt.

His wife, Elizabeth, 23, who suffered gunshot wounds of the head and arm, was reported resting comfortably at Arlington Hospital. The baby, Robert Herman, who was shot in the forehead, is in Georgetown hospital. His condition last night was reported as satisfactory.

Coroner Lists Hamilton Death As a Suicide

Dr. A. Magruder McDonald, District coroner, yesterday issued a certificate of suicide in the death of Mrs. Florence M. Hamilton, 45, veteran statistician with the Department of Agriculture.

Mrs. Hamilton was found dead, an electric cord noose about her neck, by her husband, Ralph, Thursday evening, at their home, 5310 13th st. nw. Police said she had hanged herself from a water pipe in a small closet adjoining the second floor bathroom, and that the wire had broken later.

Her husband, a Census Bureau statistician, said his wife suffered failing health and had been highly nervous for the past two months.

Langer, Rees Act to Speed U. S. Pay Rise

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

The Senate and House Civil Service Committees yesterday took a step toward recapturing the leadership in Congress on the Federal pay raise problem.

Chairmen Langer and Rees decided to hold a joint meeting early next week of their respective pay-raise subcommittees in an effort to speed action. It's no secret that committee members in both the Senate and House are disappointed over the failure of GOP leaders to act on the pay bills.

After the Langer-Rees session, Chairman Rees issued a statement in which he declared that he agreed with Langer that a pay bill must be enacted at this session of Congress.

Taft, Martin Invited

Senator Taft, the Senate GOP leader, and House Speaker Martin will be invited to appear at the joint session of the subcommittees. Ten days ago Taft promised he would confer with Martin on the pay bills. The meeting is now said to be set for the middle of next week.

It's now expected that the two subcommittees will attempt to draw up a common bill that would have the united support of both committees. The two bills now before Congress would be withdrawn and the compromise bill substituted if present plans are carried through.

And something new in the legislative process would take place if that happens. In effect, the Senate-House conferees would agree on the passage of a final bill in advance of its approval by either branch of Congress. The Langer-Rees strategy could speed up action on the pay bill.

Langer and Rees decided to grab the pay raise bill again in the wake of Capitol Hill reports that a move was afoot to delay action on pay raises until the last minute. In the rush for adjournment, it was said, a bill would be brought out that would give Federal employes an average increase of about $400 each on a take-it-or-leave-it basis. The Langer-Rees move may upset those plans.

The House subcommittee has a more conservative record on pay raises than its Senate counterpart. This 11-man group originally recommended a flat $468 increase for both postal and Classification Act workers. The full committee, however, raised the amount for postal workers to a flat $585 each.

House subcommittee members are Rees, of Kansas; Butler, of New York; Vursell and Twyman, both of Illinois; Morton, of Kentucky; and Love, of West Virginia, all Republicans; and the following Democrats: Murray, of Tennesee; Lyle and Combs, of Texas; Miller, of California; and Battle, of Alabama.

Backed by Full Group

The Senate subcommittee is made up of Langer of North Dakota, Flanders of Vermont, and Chavez of New Mexico. This three-man group has the backing of its full committee for a bill that would give postal employes a flat $800 each, and an average increase of $650 for most other Federal workers.

The Senate bill also would raise the salaries of Cabinet members and other Federal officials an average of $5000 each, and it would overhaul the Classification Act to bring jobs and salaries into a closer relationship.

Civil Rights Congress Head Gets Jail Term

Marshall Also Fined $500 for Contempt of House Committee

George Marshall, head of the left-wing Civil Rights Congress, was sentenced in District Court yesterday to serve three months in jail and pay a $500 fine for contempt of Congress.

Justice Richmond B. Keech imposed sentence and released Marshall under bond pending appeal moves. Marshall was found guilty by a jury of refusing to give certain financial records to the House Committee on Un-American Activities. The records were those of the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties, a defunct organization of which Marshall was chairman.

Gets 5 to 15 Years

In another case, Ceyberto R. Campbell, 27, a former Howard University student and athlete, was given 5 to 15 years imprisonment for attempted carnal knowledge on a 13-year-old girl. A prior trial for Campbell on the same charge resulted in a hung jury.

One man was placed on probation and a second was given jail in the theft of $2513 from the Safeway Stores. Both men pleaded guilty.

They are Charles De Board, 22, of 1608 Quarles st. ne., who received a two-year probation term, and Charles S. Teague, 19, of 727 12th st. nw., who received 6 to 18 months in jail.

Money Recovered

DeBoard, a Safeway clerk, took the money on April 1 with instructions to deposit it in a bank, but instead turned it over to Teague and reported he was robbed, it was charged. The money was recovered.

DeBoard had no previous criminal record while Teague was paroled from a conviction for transporting a stolen automobile in interstate shipment.

Dogbite Case Is Continued Until June 2

The case against a woman whose watchdog inflicted serious bite wounds on a 6-year-old boy was continued until June 2.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark F. King in Municipal Court said he would recommend the imposition of $20 collateral in the case on a probable charge of allowing a vicious dog to be in public space.

When informed of this, the woman, Mrs. Ophelia Martin, a housemaid of 1026 Florida ave. ne., said:

"I would rather give the boy's family the money. They need it more than the court."

The child, Philip Donohue, 5, of 1114 Florida ave., is in serious condition from gashes on his face, abdomen and legs. He was bitten Wednesday by Mrs. Martin's wolfhound-German shepherd in the alley back of her home.

King advised Mrs. Martin to see a lawyer before the hearing is resumed June 2.

The meeting is sponsored by the Medical Society for the District of Columbia in connection with the District Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc. The affair will climax the program of physical examinations for pre-school children that begin May 1.

16,000 Safety Patrol Youths Arriving for 12th Assembly

Some 16,000 youngsters began arriving in Washington by bus and train yesterday for the 12th National School Safety Patrol Assembly.

Sixteen of the youths received special honor medals for outstanding bravery from President Truman in an afternoon ceremony at the White House.

He congratulated the 16 after pinning a medal on each one. Included in the group was Ronald Weaver, 11, of 809 Otis pl., nw. All were awarded their medals for outstanding bravery in rescuing others from traffic danger.

Winners also included three from Virginia—Stanley Pair, 15, Greensville County High School, Emporia; Arnold M. Jones, jr., Bassett High School, Bassett; Lennox Bundy, 13, Front Royal Colored School, Front Royal.

The group was entertained at a rally and show at the Sylvan Theater last night. Radio stars Jinx Falkenberg and Tex McCrary were included in the list of entertainers.

Sponsored by the American Automobile Association, the assembly will feature a mass parade down Constitution ave. at 10 a. m. today. Edgar Bergen will present prizes for the winning floats, bands and drill teams at a second rally at the Sylvan Theater at 12:15 p. m.

Missing from the assembly was a group of 51 youngsters, including four Negroes, from New York City, whose trip to Washington was canceled because of racial segregation here. One of the group was to have received an honor medal from President Truman.

In between scheduled events, the youngsters are enjoying a sightseeing tour of the Nation's Capital. The Washington event climaxes a week of Nation-wide celebration in honor of the patrols.

Police Private Is Fined on Two Charges

A police trial board yesterday fined a private $125 in cash and 11 days pay after he had pleaded guilty to being AWOL and under the influence of liquor while off duty.

The sentence was levied against Pvt. George W. Bromley, 38, of 709 North Dinwiddie st., Arlington, a member of the force since 1937 and currently detailed to the central complaint room.

Sergt. Abel Mann, of the First Precinct, testified that at 2 a. m. on May 4, responding to a call at the Postoffice Building, Pennsylvania ave. and 12th st. nw., he found Bromley lying in the grass in a drunken condition.

Bromley pleaded guilty. He said he had been off for three days, had been working hard painting his house, and had started for work that night after taking a few drinks because he had been nervous.

The trial board, consisting of Inspector Milton D. Smith, Capt. Clarence Lutz and Assistant Corporation Counsel Henry Wixon, fined Bromley $50 for being AWOL, $75 for being drunk off duty, and the loss of pay during his suspension May 4 through May 14.

4-Week Concert Series Is Goal Of New Water Gate Drive

Despite the failure of a campaign to raise $25,000 in underwriting subscriptions for Water Gate concerts this summer, there is still a possibility for a four-week season, it was announced yesterday.

George R. Titus, chairman of the cultural development committee of the Washington Board of Trade, which appealed to 75 business leaders for pledges to ensure the regular six-week series by the National Symphony Orchestra, announced that 14 subscriptions totaling $8750 had been received up to 5 p. m. yesterday.

The campaign, begun by telegram on Tuesday night, was followed up yesterday with a telephone drive by Titus, Frank R. Jelleff, vice president of the National Symphony Association, and Maurice B. Mitchell, manager of station WTOP.

Titus said last night it may be possible to go ahead with plans for four weeks of concerts if the underwriting fund reaches $15,000 instead of the previous $25,000 goal. This amended plan will be discussed by Jelleff and other Symphony Association leaders.

The committee pointed out that during the past 10 seasons at the Watergate, the deficit has exceeded $8750, the amount subscribed in this year's campaign, only three times, for the full six-week season.

Subscription pledges would be redeemed only on the basis of the actual amount of the deficit the committee pointed out in its drive, citing the possibility that as little as 20 per cent of the pledged amount in sight might be collected.

Those who have pledged to share in the underwriting fund include Jelleff's, Inc., The Washington Post, D. J. Kaufman, Inc., Edgar Morris Sales Co., The Hecht Co., Sears, Roebuck & Co., Lee D. Butler, Inc., Cafritz Co., Arcade-Sunshine Laundry, William Hahn & Co., Giant Food Shopping Center, Inc., International Business Machines Corp., Hechinger Co. and an anonymous donor.

J. J. Blank, president of the Federation of Business Men's Association, Inc., will explore a plan of cooperation with his associates for recommendation to the association's members, the committee announced.

Pepco to File Petition for Rate Increase

Pictured as Adding 10 Cents Weekly to Household Bills

Potomac Electric Power Co. will ask a rate boost Monday which would add about 10 cents a week to the electricity bills of "average householders" here, Pepco President A. G. Neal revealed yesterday.

A formal petition for the increase will be filed with the District Public Utilities Commission Monday, he said. Rising price of coal, which the company uses to produce more than half its power, is "the cause of the whole thing," Neal explained.

The move was forecast March 26 when Neal warned PUC an increase might be sought before the company could obtain relief under PUC's new rate regulation formula.

The new formula was approved by PUC February 20. It provides for a reserve fund from which Pepco may obtain additional funds in bad years or consumers be given refunds in lush years.

Payments from the fund to Pepco or consumers would be made in November on the basis of annual company income, as computed from September earnings.

During 1947, Pepco made $401,413 less than its "fair return" of 5½ per cent on capital investment, Neal said. Approximately 56 per cent of the reserve would be needed to cover this deficit alone, he pointed out.

Approximately $713,511 is now in the reserve fund, representing money set aside beginning in 1945 for possible refund to consumers.

Neal argued that successful operation of the new PUC formula will require electrical rates high enough to produce "at least" the basic "fair return" when it begins to function.

Admiral Clark Seeks to Evict Former FTC Aide

A Municipal Court jury yesterday began hearing the case of a high Navy official and his wife who want to evict a former Federal Trade Commissioner from his apartment in the "Embassy belt" of Massachusetts ave. nw.

Bringing the action are Rear Admiral Joseph J. (Jocko) Clark, 53, assistant chief of Naval Operations for Air, and his wife, Shannon, who now reside at 1857 S. 26th rd., Arlington.

The Clarks own a four-story apartment building at 2500 Massachusetts ave. nw. Huston Thompson, attorney and former Trade Commissioner, is tenant of the first floor apartment, consisting of eight rooms and four baths.

Mrs. Clark testified that she wants the first and third floors comprising a total of 6000 square feet for herself and six members of her family. The second floor apartment is occupied by Admiral Emory S. Land.

The case was continued to Monday.

Man Faces Charges In 1942 Rape Attempt

Alexandria police yesterday returned a 45-year-old man from Seattle, Wash., who had been under indictment in Alexandria since 1942 charged with attempted rape.

Police listed him as Orrien H. Gilbert, who, they said, formerly lived at 1320 5th st. nw. They said Gilbert, a truck driver, had accosted a 10-year-old girl on her way to school and tried to rape her. He was identified by photographs and indicted in absentia by an Alexandria grand jury.

Gilbert was recently arrested in Seattle for molesting women and released to Alexandria for trial on the more serious offense.

Strict Sex Law Is Due for Early Senate Action

Disputes Verdict

Student Gets 2 Years for Seducing Girl

Guy H. Fuller, jr., 19-year-old District student, was convicted in Arlington Circuit Court yesterday of seducing a 17-year-old Arlington girl, now about to become a mother.

The verdict was brought in by an all-male jury which deliberated five and a half hours before finding the youth guilty of having sexual intercourse with Shirley Jackson, 2829 N. 15th st., on the strength of a promise of marriage which he failed to fulfill.

Fuller was sentenced to serve two years in the State Penitentiary on recommendation of the jury which determines sentences under Virginia law. His attorney immediately filed a motion to set aside the verdict as "contrary to law and evidence."

Judge Walter T. McCarthy set June 1 for a hearing on the motion and continued Fuller's bond at $500.

The decision climaxed two days of conflicting testimony centering on relations which, according to both camplainant and defendant, started on the girl's sixteenth birthday, December 18, 1946.

Marriage "Discussed"

According to Miss Jackson, the illicit romance began after she and Fuller had discussed marriage "several times." She said this relationship continued for more than a year during which the youth repeatedly told her they would be married when both had completed school.

The girl's contention that Fuller had openly mentioned the marriage was supported in court by her sister, Joy, her mother and several acquaintances.

Fuller, an interior decorating student at the Bell Vocational School who lives at 66 New York ave. nw., denied he had ever committed himself to marriage. He charged the first act of intimacy was a result of Miss Jackson's invitation to come to her home in her parents' absence and "make a day of it."

Brought Her Birthday Gift

The night before Miss Jackson's birthday Fuller said he telephoned her to say he wanted to bring her a birthday present. He said she told him she planned to stay away from school the next day and invited him to come to the home after 9 a. m. when her parents would be gone to work.

Fuller testified he arrived at her home to find the front door unlocked and went directly to her bedroom where he found Miss Jackson in bed wearing only a two-piece pajama suit. It was then, he said, that the first intercourse occurred.

The youth admitted he continued to see the complainant about every two weeks and that the illicit romance continued, but denied he had ever promised marriage. During that time, he said, he had gone out with about 20 other girls.

In closing argument, the defense contended that Miss Jackson was fully aware that Fuller was keeping company with other girls and therefore had no reason to believe that she was the sole object of his affections. Defense exhibits included two letters she had written Fuller while he was on vacation acknowledging that he probably was seeing other girls.

In one letter Miss Jackson wrote, "I don't know about the woman down there, but I hope they are all a bunch of bags."

Questioned about her own dates with other men, she admitted she had gone out on one occasion with a married man, but she said he was a former business associate and that they had been together "in a crowd."

Mother Learns All in Diary

The girl's mother, Mrs. Hobson Jackson, told the jury she first learned of her daughter's relationship with Fuller about four months after it started when she found her daughter's diary which described the acts of intimacy. She said she immediately telephoned Fuller to insist that he "do the honorable thing" and was informed that he intended to marry Shirley.

Fuller denied telling Mrs. Jackson that he intended to marry her daughter.

Mrs. Jackson said she was naturally concerned about the young couple's relationship but felt assured from his actions that they would be married.

Girl Considered Abortion

During the trial it was brought out that Shirley considered an abortion after she learned she had become pregnant late last summer. She admitted making a trip to Martinsburg, W. Va., in January of this year to consult a physician, but then decided against the abortion after she and her sister had talked by telephone to their mother from Martinsburg.

Defense Attorney Earl H. Davis contended that there was no evidence to show that the initial act was predicated upon a promise of marriage. He said it was apparent that the bedroom scene on the day of the girl's sixteenth birthday had been prearranged by her without consultation with Fuller.

District Officials Strongly Indorse Measure Already Passed by House

Early Senate action on the House-approved bill for stricter District laws on sex offenses appeared certain yesterday after Washington officials strongly indorsed the measure.

Senator James P. Kem (R., Mo.) chairman of the Senate District judiciary subcommittee which heard testimony on the sex offender bill, said he would favor the measure, with some technical change.

The main change that appeared necessary, said Senator Kem, is a more legally exact phrasing of the section dealing with the crime of sodomy. The present language, including a general reference to "any other unnatural or perverted sexual act" was questioned by District Health Officer George C. Ruhland as wording "that could easily lend itself to blackmail procedures."

Two Main Purposes

The House-approved measure has two main purposes—(1) to increase sex offense penalties, particularly when the crime involves children, and (2) to establish a system for committing sex psychopaths to St. Elizabeths for treatment.

A sharp protest was lodged against the bill by Attorney John M. Holzworth of Alexandria, Va. He called it thoroughly dangerous legislation, and said it would be unconstitutional.

Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.) a physician and House manager of the bill, told Kem's group the bill is progressive legislation from the medical and legal point of view. He declared the individual would be properly protected.

"The bill properly protects sex practices that may be carried on by a man and wife that are not sex offenses so long as they are confined to the home," Representative Miller said.

Weapons Bill Discussed

Kem's subcommittee also heard District officials urge passage of a bill that would let the police destroy weapons legally taken from persons carrying them illegally. Corporation Counsel West explained present law allows persons from whom the police seize weapons to reclaim them unless the persons have been convicted of a felony. Also speaking for the bill was Police Inspector Robert C. Pearce.

A third bill, to restrict erection of television and radio towers in residential areas here, brought sharply divided views. The bill was opposed by Corporation Counsel West, speaking for the Commissioners, Thad H. Brown, counsel for the Television Broadcasters' Association, and Bryce Rae, attorney for the National Association of Broadcasters. Passage of the measure was urged by Leverett A. Meadows, and George A. Corbin, of the Manor Park Citizens Association. The bill has been passed by the House but not by the Senate.

Touch-Identity Rape Case Goes To Special Jury

A special session of the Montgomery grand jury on May 24 will hear the case of a 54-year-old suspected rapist charged with assaulting a nearly blind Takoma Park, Md., widow.

Held without bond in the Rockville jail and facing a possible death sentence, if convicted, is Joseph (Dupe) Ross, 54, of 804 Larch ave., Takoma Park, a garbage collector for the town of Takoma Park.

The special session of the grand jury impaneled for the March term of court was ordered yesterday by Circuit Court Judges Charles W. Woodward and Stedman Prescott, after a request by State's Attorney Walter W. Dawson.

Police said Ross was charged as a result of an "excellent description" given them by the nearly blind woman, who felt her assailant's clothing, face and head with her hands as she was being attacked in her home last Wednesday at 11:30 p. m.

"She gave us a better description than most people do who have perfect eyesight," said Inspector James S. McAulisse, county detective chief.

Meanwhile, detectives reported samples of clothing worn by both the victim and the suspect have been sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for analysis and disclosure of possible clews.

The woman, police said, is under the care of a physician.

Convict's Clothes, Note Left on Bridge

Suicide or ruse?

District police yesterday sought the answere to the question, raised by the discovery of a man's clothing and a suicide note on the east end of Sousa Bridge the night before.

At about 10:30 p. m. Thursday—during the rainstorm—police of the Fifth Precinct station received a phone call about clothing lying on the bridge.

Police investigated and found a white shirt, a pair of tan trousers, a tan raincoat, key chain and a wallet containing personnal papers and bearing the name of Eugene Collier, 19, of 439 10th st. nw., together with an incoherent page-note indicating suicide was planned by the writer.

A check disclosed that a Eugene Collier had escaped from Occoquan workhouse April 6, five days after he had entered the jail to serve 160 days on an assault charge.

Yesterday, police dragged the Anacostia River in a search for Collier's body, while detectives sought to determine whether or not the suicide layout might be a ruse by the escaped prisoner.

Owners Lose Appeals

Approximately 15 homeowners in Bradley Hills Grove Subdivision, Md., yesterday lost their fight against higher property assessments when their appeals were rejected by the Montgomery County commissioners.

The delegation appeared three weeks ago before the commissioners and protested new evaluations effective last May 1 which, they said, range from 100 to 700 per cent over previous assessments.

Appeal From Germany

"It is hard for me to ask for food. I never did this in my life, but the need is sharp. May God reward you for it."

These lines were contained in a letter received yesterday from Westphalia, Germany, by Montgomery County Commissioner Oliver W. Youngblood. The letter, addressed "Mayor of Silver Spring, Maryland," was signed by a Walter Tschiersch, who did not otherwise identify himself.

Tschiersch said he had heard America was "investigating the need in Europe." "We live," he wrote, "in a hard time. We get food very scantily and live on bread and potatoes. We never have tea or cocoa and our coffee is made of acorns. We never get any soap."

Uncle Seeks Boy Here

The uncle of a missing 16-year-old high school boy from Spring Valley, N. Y., came to Washington yesterday to try to find the youth and take him back to his mother, who has suffered a nervous breakdown since he left home on April 1.

Melvin

The youth, Melvin Kaufman, is believed to be here because of an uncompleted phone call made last Sunday, Mother's Day, from Washington to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Kaufman, with whom he lived at Spring Valley.

His uncle, Henry Slepsian of New York, who is staying at the Congressional Hotel, 300 New Jersey ave. se., yesterday appealed to the Missing Persons Bureau and the newspapers for help. He believes Kaufman will contact him if he learns that his mother is very ill. Slepsian must return to New York tonight, he said.

Tree Uprooting Charged

A Takoma Park, Md., steam shovel operator faces a possible $25 fine for uprooting a tree without a permit, police disclosed yesterday.

The man, Laymond C. Redding, 6715 Gude ave., was arrested on a warrant sworn by a Maryland Forestry Department inspector. The tree, a 50-year-old holly, was uprooted on the State right-of-way at Georgia ave. near old Bladensburg rd. The case was set for 9:30 a. m. Tuesday, in Silver Spring Police Court.

$50,000 Asked for Cut

Mrs. Helen Conte, 1528 T st. nw., yesterday asked District Court for $50,000 damages she said she suffered when a butcher left a knife in a package of chicken.

Named defendant was the Safeway Stores, Inc. She said that a knife was left in a package while she shopped March 22. She said she suffered an inch-long gash in her breast when another shopper leaned against her and the knife protruded from the package.

Store Robbed 3d Time

Maloney's, Inc., a hardware store at 8126 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, was broken into by thieves for the third time within a year, Montgomery County police reported yesterday. An undetermined quantity of cash and tools was taken.

Horse Causes Suit

A horseman whose mount fell on top of him filed a $50,000 damage suit in District Court yesterday against the previous owner.

Fred R. Wilson of 1612 U st. se., filed the suit against J. Robert Dixon of 1620 1st st. nw., declaring that Dixon boasted the mare was "suitable even for a baby to ride." Wilson said the mare reared back and fell on top of him, inflicting numerous injuries.

Kennedy's Daughter Flew To Death With Wealthy Lord

Privas, France, May 14 (AP).—The body of Kathleen Lady Hartington, killed in a plane crash with a British lord and two fliers, was taken tonight to an improvised funeral parlor in the Privas town hall.

The Marchioness of Hartington, daughter of Joseph P. Kennedy, millionaire former United States Ambassador to Britain, died last night with Lord Fitzwilliam, one of Britain's richest peers, and two plane crew members, Capt. P. A. Townshend and Radio Officer A. F. Freeman. The plane crashed on a mountain near here.

Lady Hartington's body and those of her companions were brought here by ox-cart from the scene of the crash, 10 miles away. Her body is to be taken to Paris, where her father received condolences today from Princess Elizabeth.

The four were flying in the two-engined DeHavilland Dove transport to the French Riviera, presumably for a vacation, when they crashed at the base of 1800-foot Le Coran Mountain 25 miles southwest of Valence.

Farmer Sees Wing Fall Off

A farmer said he heard a plane flying very low about 6 o'clock last night during a thunder storm.

"Suddenly I saw the plane come out of the clouds, and a wing fall off," he said. "The plane then plunged straight into the ground behind a hill. It took my father and me an hour to find the wreckage."

When they did, they saw Lady Hartington stretched on her back in the rain, as if asleep. There was a deep gash on her face and her shoes were gone. She was identified by her American passport.

Lord Fitzwilliam's body was beneath his seat. The crew members had been crushed against the instrument board.

In Paris, Joseph Kennedy absented himself from his hotel after being informed of his daughter's death. Friends said they did not know whether he had gone to the scene.

Widow-Daughter Survive Peer

Earlier, when asked about the crash, he had said, his voice broken, "I have no plans, no plans."

For the Boston businessman and diplomat the death of his 28-year-old daughter was a terrible blow. His British son-in-law, the dashing Marquess of Harrington, who married Kathleen in 1944, was killed in action in France four months after the wedding. Less than a month before, Kennedy's son, Joseph P., jr., had been killed in an operational flight in Europe.

Kathleen worked three years for the Times-Herald in Washington, D. C. and then joined the Red Cross for duty in London.

It was during her first visit to London in 1938, when she served as official hostess for her father during her mother's illness, that she met the Marquess of Harlington. Her name was linked romantically with several men, including Winthrop Rockefeller.

Lord Fitzwilliam, 37-year-old friend of Lady Hartington's, is survived by a widow and daughter. He had chartered the plane of Skyways, Ltd., in London for the flight.

Decision Deferred In $10,000 Suit Against Detective

Visiting Justice J. Alger Fee in District Court took under advisement yesterday a $10,000 false arrest suit filed against a police detective here.

The suit was filed by Attorney C. Reginald Audrick in behalf of two brothers, Albert and Carlisle Cherry, of 507 2nd st., nw. Named defendant was Clarence Winemiller of the First Precinct.

The Cherrys charged they were illegally arrested at 11 p. m. November 23, 1946, and detained at the First Precinct for 15 minutes.

The arrests were made by Winemiller in connection with a whisky store robbery. The victim of the robbery stated the men were not involved in the case and they were subsequently released.

The case was submitted without a jury on the question as to whether there was probable cause to arrest the Cherry brothers in connection with the investigation of the commission of a felony.

The body of Colonel Matlack lay in state at the chapel yesterday, attended by a guard of honor from the Third Infantry Regiment. The chapel chimes were rung in tribute to the late post commander.

Men of his regiment will line the route of the funeral procession from the chapel to the graveside, and will comprise a guard of honor and a firing squad. The United States Army Band will furnish music. Honorary pallbearers will be classmates of Colonel Matlack in the class of 1917 at West Point.

Overton Dies, Funeral Set for Monday

Senator John Holmes Overton (D., La.), a long-time advocate of increased Federal funds for the District, died early yesterday at Bethesda Naval Hospital. He was 73 years old.

Operated on May 5 for an intestinal obstruction, he rallied briefly several times but took a sudden turn for the worse early yesterday. Death came at 5:50 a. m.

The Senate adjourned early yesterday, after his many friends in Congress delivered eulogies. Perhaps the most touching tribute was paid by Senator Clyde M. Reed (R., Kans.), who with deep emotion placed a bowl of gladioli on Overton's desk before joining in the eulogies.

An official delegation of Senators, designated to attend his funeral, will leave for Alexandria tonight. They include Senator Kenneth McKellar (D., Tenn.), Senator Carl Hayden (D., Ariz.), Senator Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.), Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.), Senator Wallace H. White, jr., (R., Me.), Senator Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.), Senator Harry Flood Byrd (D., Va.), Senator Dennis Chavez (D., N. Mex.), Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H).

Senator Clyde M. Reed (R., Kans.), Senator Tom Stewart (D., Tenn.), Senator Hugh Butler (R., Nebr.), Senator C. Douglass Buck (R., Del.), Senator James O. Eastland (D., Miss.), Senator Williams Langer (R., N. Dak.), Senator Albert W. Hawkes (R., N. J.), Senator John L. McClellan (D., Ark.), Senator Chapman Revercomb (R., W. Va.), Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.), Senator a Willis Robertson (D., Va.), Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.); and Senator George W. Malone (R., Nev.).

Once a center of political controversy in his State, Senator Overton had been a member of Congress since 1931. He was elected to the House of Representatives that year to finish an unexpired term.

The following year he was elected to the Senate with the support of his close friend, the late Huey P. Long, after a rough political fight against the incumbent, Senator Edwin S. Broussard.

In the Senate, Senator Overton stepped to high place in the esteem of Washington citizens when he launched his fight for an increase in Federal payments to the District. He dealt with Washington legislation both as a member of the Senate District Committee and as member and chairman of the Senate District Appropriations Subcommittee, which handles the annual city budget.

Foe of Daylight Time

A bitter foe of daylight saving time in 1947 and again this year, Senator Overton fought against bills to set the clocks ahead one hour in the District of Columbia. When he lost, he kept his own Senate office on standard time.

He ran for his final term in 1944 at the urging of 46 Senators who asked him in a letter to reconsider his decision to retire because of ill health. At the time of his death, Senator Overton was ranking Democratic member of the Senate Public Works Committee and one of the Senate's leading champions of river and navigation projects, especially in the Mississippi River Valley. He also was a member of the Appropriations Committee.

Senator Overton was born in Marksville, La., but made his home in Alexandria. He was married to the former Ruth Dismukes, and had three daughters, Mrs. Edward G. Gilleteau, Ruth, and Mrs. Elbert C. Brazelton. A son, John H. Overton, jr., died. The Senator was graduated from Louisiana State University in 1905 and took his law degree at Tulane.

Thrifty Ways Of Using Ham

I baked a ham and, since I didn't make gravy, I have a half pint or more of pure ham juice. Can you suggest some ways to use this jellied juice, from which the fat has been removed?
W. F. B.

Making split pea soup is one good way to utilize water in which a ham has been cooked. Soak a half cup of split peas in 1½ cups water for about 12 hours. Then drain peas and put them on to cook in the 2 cups of ham juice plus 1 cup of water. Cook for about an hour, covered, then add about 2 tablespoons chopped onions, 4 tablespoons chopped celery with leaves, and 2 tablespoons chopped carrots. Cook for another hour, then put soup through colander. Melt about 2 teaspoons of butter or ham fat and stir in 2 teaspoons of flour until well blended. Add the soup mixture to it slowly. Season with salt and paprika, if required, and serve with croutons.

The water from the ham might also be used in making navy bean soup or in cooking such vegetables as turnip greens, to give them extra flavor. You might also mix it with milk to use in scalloping potatoes, or use it to moisten the filling for stuffed potatoes. Any other suggestions, readers?

How do you prepare a solid maple piece of furniture for painting? I would like to paint it black. What kind of paint should I use to achieve a semi-dull black, like the shade on a Boston rocker? Is it possible to refinish a veneered piece of furniture? I would like to paint that black also.
R. O. C.

If the finish on the piece is in bad condition, it should first be entirely removed by using a good varnish remover, following directions which come with the kind you buy. When the finish is removed and the piece is dry, scrape and sand the piece all over to smooth the surface. Be sure to wipe away any loose particles with a lint free cloth before proceeding with the painting.

If the finish is in good condition and not a heavy, thick one, possibly it will not be necessary to use a varnish remover. Just sand lightly with fine sandpaper to break the surface of the old finish so that the paint will adhere.

When the surface is prepared, apply the first coat, using an undercoat paint thinned with one fourth as much turpentine. The second coat should be the undercoater as it comes from the can. For the finish coat, apply a flat-drying enamel since you wish a dull finish.

Use the same procedure as described above for refinishing the veneered piece.

Can you tell me the best method to whiten ivory piano keys which have turned yellow? How should they be cleaned?
M. D. T.

When piano keys yellow from age, they are yellowed throughout and nothing will whiten them. Yellow stains on the surface of the keys can be removed by wiping with alcohol.

How do you treat dust cloths so they will pick up the dust on waxed furniture?
R. M. J.

Immerse the clean dust cloth in a solution of one pint hot water to one-fourth cup lemon oil, or lemon oil furniture polish. Squeeze the solution thoroughly throughout the cloth, wring out and allow to dry.

Is there any satisfactory way to paint light tan parchment lamp shades to a dark red?
R. M. J.

Parchment can be painted satisfactorily with artist's oil paints which come in all colors. For further information about the paints, call National 6386.

Women Launch Bond Drive At Luncheon

Members of the District Women's Bond-a-Month League heard "pep" talks from several prominent guests at the luncheon yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel which launched their drive to sell savings bonds.

Speaking briefly in the interest of the bond a month plan, which the League is sponsoring, were Representative George A. Dondero of Michigan; Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, Director of the Mint; Thomas J. Groom, chairman of the District Savings Bond Committee; and Miss Ilka Chase, actress and author, who is currently appearing at the National Theater in "There Goes the Bride."

Representative Dondero told the audience of 300 guests that the lamp of freedom is burning dangerously low throughout the world and that the purchase of bonds is emblematic of faith in your country. "Freedom is not a static thing," he warned. "It takes a spirit of patriotism and life itself to preserve it."

He congratulated the league for sponsoring the drive and voiced the hope that cities in other parts of the country would follow the example.

Mrs. Ross pointed out that the people responded with valor during the wartime bond drive and said "they will do equally well again, provided we can impress on them the importance of the drive." She suggested that solicitors stress the present need for thrift in this country.

"Thrift, if practiced by everyone, will lessen the dangers of inflation," Mrs. Ross said. "Money put into savings bonds today will buy much more in a few years, when prices get back to normal."

Mrs. Lindsey P. Rawley, league chairman, presided at the luncheon. Seated at the head table were members of the executive committee, including Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Raymond Clapper, Dr. Irma Gene Nevins, Mrs. Roger L. Lewis, Miss Gertrude Prisley, Mrs. Edward C. Magdeburger, Mrs. Alice Wolfe, Mrs. Joseph Egan and Mrs. Nathan Simkowitz.

Mrs. Wilds Gives Tea; Jno. Caswells Entertain

By Marie McNair

MR. and Mrs. John Caswell's party yesterday was to celebrate an occasion. Mrs. Walter Wilds' tea at the Washington Club was to honor a new friend.

Ten years ago today the Austrian Minister and Mme. Prochnik turned over the keys of their legation to Nazi members of the German Embassy and moved into a house on 24th st. Mr. and Mrs. Caswell were their neighbors across the street and Betsy Caswell had asked the Prochniks to come in and have a drink after their long day settling a new home.

It turned out to be something of a party.

Today Mr. and Mrs. Prochnik — he's an American citizen now—are moving again, this time to an apartment at 1911 R st. And so — the friendly Caswells said "Come in and have a drink with us on Friday."

This too, turned out to be a party.

In the gathering were old friends of both hosts and guests of honor and that means Washington of old.

Betsy Caswell went to school here and except for a brief period abroad has spent the rest of her life in the Capital. Mme. Prochnik, American born, has lived here for a score of years or perhaps more, watched her children grow up in the same town.

Col. and Mrs. Horace Summerlin were there and Pen Turner and Mrs. Henry Corbin, who avoided the crowd and sat for the afternoon in the drawing room. In the gathering also were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kauffmann, Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim and Clarence Hewes.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. MacCracken breezed in and so did Mrs. George Barnett with a cluster of fragrant lilies of the valley pinned to her lapel, a remembrance from an old Japanese servant, long since moved away, who sends a seasonal bouquet.

Kurt Hetzel and Mrs. Hetzel were there, Lanette Hetzel wearing a most becoming straw sailor with a circlet of pink and rose beige roses around the brim.

I met Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bugbee —and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McCoy—he's director of the Office of Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce, and saw Mrs. Alex Legare coming in with her son, Wolcott Waggerman—Doggy to his friends.

Among others at this pleasant party were former Senator and Mrs. Hiram Bingham, Mrs. Bingham in a red and white print with red flowers on her hat.

And I mustn't forget to say that Betsy Caswell, who has lost pounds and looks like a girl of 16 again, was also smartly dressed in a smoke gray shantung frock with gold clips at the neck.

AT MRS. Walter Wilds' party yesterday not a single husband dared to show his face. It was strictly a ladies' tea.

There were pretty hats to be admired, strawberry ice cream and tiny cakes to be devoured and pretty ladies to pour coffee and tea.

Bonnie Wilds topped her black costume with a bonnet of robin's-egg blue flowers and Mme. Brito, wife of the Charge d'Affaires of Brazil, who was the guest of honor, was in black, also, with heavy gold jewelry and a flaring hat of gray felt.

Mme. Thors, wife of the Icelandic Minister, combining a black and white hat with her black frock, was introducing her sister-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Thors, and then took her turn at the tea table.

Mrs. John Steelman was in a group which included Mrs. Frederick Witt and Mrs. William H. Watson, Emma Steelman wearing a deep blue bengaline suit with the new swish in back and a black hat trimmed with sprays of purple lilacs.

Said "how-de-do" to Senora de Mora of Uruguay; and Mrs. Benjamin Hill; met Mrs. Hill's daughter, Cynthia, and Mrs. Charles McEnerney, who told me her daughter, Nancy Cusack, is expecting the stork in July.

Mrs. James Souby was there, and others were Mrs. Joseph McGarraghy, Mrs. Edwin McK. Hunt, and among the younger guests there were Mrs. Grayson Headley, Mrs. George C. Clarke, Miss Cornelia Langer, Miss Mary-Stuart Price and Mrs. Lawrence Jacobsen.

MRS. Henrietta Maria Wheat is celebrating her ninety-sixth birthday today and this evening there will be a reception at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Charles D. Sager. Entertaining with Mrs. Sager for their mother will be Mrs. Rose Wheat Bell, Mrs. Reah Wheat Covington, Mrs. Rachel May and R. K. Wheat.

COL. FELIPE MUNILLA, former Military Attache of the Cuban Embassy, and Senora de Munilla will be honor guests at a luncheon today to be held at the home of Milton Starr.

The luncheon will be under the direction of Prof. Ramon Ramos, Spanish instructor, who will be assisted by Miss Jeanette Charlebous, Miss Ellen Y. Flint, Miss Gladys A. Yarnold, Manuel Lorenzo and William R. Stephens. Senora Damiagua of Venezuela will be a special guest.

AT THE Army-Navy Club yesterday Mrs. George L. West, jr., and Miss Alwilda Ferris entertained at a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Betty Tyson Lyeth. Other guests were Miss Julie Barnes, Miss Inga Ravndal, Miss Anita Baraibar, Miss Teresa Baraibar and Miss Laura Belle Wyatt.

THE new United States Ambassador to Panama, Monnett Davis, and Mrs. Davis entertained at a reception at the Statler yesterday to say farewell to their friends. The reception was from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. in the South American Room.

Ambassador and Mrs. Davis are leaving Washington Tuesday, and sailing from New York on Wednesday. Their son, Thomas Monnett Davis, came down from Philadelphia for the party.

LEAVING Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral, where their wedding was solemnized by Bishop Angus Dun yesterday at 4 p. m., are Major and Mrs. James Frederick Charles Mellor. Mrs. Mellor is the former Miss Ann Hatton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hatton of Plymouth, Devonshire, England. Major Mellor is attached to the staff of the British Embassy. He is a member of the Sixtieth Rifles, crack regiment of the British Army. After a honeymoon in Bermuda, Major and Mrs. Mellor will be at home at 1910 K street, n.w.

However, local sales for the four weeks ended May 8 showed a 6 per cent increase over like period last year. Regionally, store sales in the Fifth Federal Reserve District advanced 2 per cent for the week and were up 4 per cent in the four-week period.

For the February-March-April period, these dividends totaled $1,250,900,000, a 13 per cent gain over the same period of last year. Publicly reported dividends account for about two-thirds of all cash dividends paid, the department said. Historic Bushfield Plantation

Here is the famous home of John Augustine Washington in historic Westmoreland County, Va., at the intersection of Cabin, Nomini and Potomac Rivers. The farm contains 164 acres of land, 152 of which is open and 12 acres of woods (more land available); in high state of cultivation plus 9½ acres of oyster rights under riparian rights. All of it is waterfront as Bushfield is a peninsula formed by Buckners Creek, the Nomini and Potomac Rivers.

The main house, brick with slate roof, was restored by Wadsworth Wood, one of the most famous of American architects, in 1912. It is thoroughly modern in every way, having water, oil heat. Excellent state of repairs.

First floor consists of large gracious center hall, music room, sun room, banquet size dining room (all with high ceilings), butler's pantry, electric kitchen, laundry and deep freeze room (12 ft. deep freeze included) as well as two large bedrooms with bath and fireplaces.

Second floor contains master bedroom (overlooking river) with bath, wardrobe room and fireplace. Milady's suite consists of bedroom, sitting room, overlook-box, garden and river, 1½ baths, wardrobe room and closets, two additional guest bedrooms with adjoining sitting rooms, bath and fireplaces.

In all, six bedrooms, 5 baths, exclusive of 4 servants' bedrooms and bath on 3rd floor. Large library or studio on 3rd floor, overlooking sun deck and 3 farms and 6 miles of Potomac to Maryland Shore. Large linen room and farm office on 2d floor reached by servants, stairway to 3rd floor quarters.

Two guest houses with living room, kitchens and baths, 2 tenant houses, 2 with bath and electricity, garage and tool houses, large orchard, cattle sheds, silo corn crib, 2 chicken houses, boat house and wharves. This is a going farm and beef, hams, fish, oysters, wild duck, crabs are available as well as table vegetables and fruit and poultry.

The walled gardens are at their best now (garden week) and filled with box, crepe myrtle, horse chestnut, age-old elms, as well as every bloom imaginable. Present caretaker and farm help will remain. This is one of the most charming estates in Tidewater, Va., aside from its authentic history in a country famous for mild winters. The price for this—one of the most complete and beautiful in the South—is $80,000, which is about half of what the mansion house cost to build at a time when materials and honest efficient labor were cheap. Can be financed with half down. Brokers protected. Mt. Holly, Va., is 100 miles of Washington, 125 miles from Baltimore and 65 miles from Richmond, on excellent roads, and Bushfield will be shown by appointment. Write, write or phone

1075-Acre Cattle Ranch

This large, highly profitable BEEF CATTLE farm lies in a fertile valley, bordering on a macadam highway, only 40 miles from the Nation's Capital. No manor house, but an excellent manager's home, and 5 nearly new tenant cottages. A cattle barn, built in 1938, measures 300x80 feet. It will onstage feed 200 cattle. In addition to 75 acres in corn, that much mowed for hay each year, this land fattens over 200 cattle on its blue grass, orchard grass, and mixed clover pastures. A drilled well, 350 feet deep, furnishes water by electric pump to all buildings. All pastures have running water, and ample shade for contented cattle. About 150 acres of woods.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Shame On You, Diablo, You Little Devil

It must be universally true that all women like to remove their shoes when they think nobody is looking.

A few nights ago a charming young French girl eased out of her slippers while dining on the Normandy Farm terrace.

But what began as her own private secret soon became an embarrassing public event. When the meal was over, one of her slippers was mysteriously missing!

There was a great search, of course, but it merely served to deepen the mystery. The red-faced young lady had to go home like deedle deedle dumpling, my son John—one shoe off and the other shoe on.

If Cinderella will claim her slipper, she'll find it thoroughly chewed. But a repentant Diablo promises to dig down into his reserves and shell out enough bones to pay for a new pair.

MISCELLANY

Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young says, "The drinks are on me, for forgetting to answer your question about the bridge piers." After investigating the possibility of beautifying the remains of the old Aqueduct Bridge (above Key Bridge) by planting vines and flowers on the piers, General Young finds that no public agency has any funds which could be allocated for the purpose. I presume it would take an act of Congress to get the few bucks that would be needed . . . The Social Service Club of Woodrow Wilson High School will hold its annual rummage sale from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. today in the American Legion Hall, Wisconsin ave. and M st. nw. Proceeds will be used to send underprivileged children to a summer camp, according to Barbara Turlington of 402 Warwick pl., Chevy Chase, Md. Barbara, incidentally, wants to know whether it's correct to address her letter to "Dear Mr. Gold—or should I say 'Dear Bill' as everyone else seems to?" Don't call me "Mr. Gold," Barbara—that's my father's name . . . When Mrs. C. W. Per-lee of 1015 North Edgewood st., Arlington, Va., went to college, she and her three girl friends were known on the campus as Fuzz, Wuzz, Buzz and Agamemnon—which ranks with my "Eeny, Meeny, Miney and Pierre" . . . About six months ago Saul Sims of 1414 Downing st. nw. saw a Washington Post classified ad that appealed to him. It offered a Doberman pinscher pup for $25. Saul had never owned a dog before, and decided it was time he had one. So he shelled out the 25 bucks—and the other day turned down an offer of $800 in cash from a dog fancier. "I wouldn't part with Snooks for any amount of money," says Saul. "I never knew how devoted a man can become to a dog until I got one" . . . Al Sisson of 4609 24th ave., North Woodridge, Md., says, "Instead of the 'new look,' they ought to call these long dresses the 'short look'—because that's all they ever get."

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

I think you'd like to know about my grandson, who is not quite 4 years old. He likes to travel.

His first trip (alone) started at 14th and Webster sts. nw. He walked about a mile to Irving st., got on a bus to Wisconsin ave., took a streetcar to 17th and Pennsylvania se., and was finally overtaken by police at that point.

More recently he started out with his wagon and walked to the streetcar terminal at Colorado ave.

There he left the wagon and boarded a bus to Georgia ave. and transferred to a car headed toward Silver Spring.

When the police caught up with him (they've really been wonderful) he had them go by Colorado ave. to pick up the wagon.

By the way, the boy's mother, Margaret, was out driving one day when a woman stepped directly in front of her car.

Luckily, Margaret had just begun to move again after having come to a dead stop, and the only damage done was one torn stocking.

But Margaret was so unnerved by the incident that the woman who got hit had to drive her home.

G. R. Cooley,

Dear Mr. Cooley:

The family seems to have better luck on streetcars than in autos, doesn't it?

By the way—where does the boy get his penchant for traveling? Are you folks related to Eleanor Roosevelt? Bill.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK. — Sir Laurence Olivier's "Hamlet" opened in London with the King and Queen in attendance at the premiere, and received the critics' highest praises. After the premiere of this movie, which runs more than 2½ hours, Correspondent Sam Boal asked Ewart Hodgson, the glum critic for the News of the World: "What'd you think of 'Hamlet'?" Hodgson muttered: "Well written."

Goddard Leiberson, the Columbia Recording executive, was in Chicago where a concert manager confessed some of his problems. "I once booked Paderewski for a recital here," said the manager. "We were quite thrilled at having the world's greatest pianist, and gave him the reception which was his due. And after the concert I showed him the accountants' report—the attendance, the gross receipts, etc. . . . Paderwski took one glance at it—and that one glance was enough to make him ask: 'What did you do with the two extra tickets?'"

Gertrude Lawrence will receive a doctor of fine arts degree from Ithaca College . . . John Gunther is completing a short book on President Roosevelt, a profile in retrospect, for Harper's . . . There'll be a $50-a-plate dinner at the Waldorf next Wednesday, in honor of the Habimah Players. Maxwell Anderson, Elia Kazan, Ralph Bellamy and Michael Redgrave are among the sponsors . . . Mrs. Roosevelt has invited Justice William O. Douglas to make the dedicatory speech at the unveiling of the Roosevelt plaque at the Hyde Park church.

James A. Michener, who won the Pulitzer Prize for his "Tales of the South Pacific," works for Macmillan and submitted his manuscript anonymously. He sent it first to a man in the trade department of the publishing house, so that its source couldn't be traced. When the editorial board finally decided to accept it, and asked: "But where can we find the author?" the intermediary brought Michener in from the room directly above them . . . When Oscar Hammerstein 2d wrote to inquire where he could reach the author, to discuss plans for a musical version, he was told that Michener lives one block away from Hammerstein's home in Doylestown, Pa.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Behind That Note to Molotov

By Drew Pearson

Backstage in Moscow.—For many months, Ambassador "Beetle" Smith hasn't been able to see Molotov. Up until the famous note he delivered May 4, he was given the run-around, only allowed to talk to a 27-year-old diplomat who heads the American desk of the Soviet Foreign Office . . . No. 1 mystery in Moscow: Why did Ambassador Smith go fishing in France immediately after his talks with Molotov? Answer: He merely wanted to fish, has his own plane in which to go fishing. Hitherto things had been so dull in Moscow, he didn't think it made any difference.

Walter B. Smith

Lull before the storm? For about three weeks Moscow's belligerency has lulled. The radio has calmed down. Pressure has eased off against Austria, Scandinavia, and the Allies in Germany . . . This can mean a lot—or nothing . . . It took several months after announcement of the Truman doctrine for Greece for the Soviet to occupy Hungary. Undoubtedly Hungary was their answer to us in Greece . . . Undoubtedly also Czechoslovakia was one answer to the Marshall Plan . . . From a dictatorship, you can always expect retaliation. Dictators don't have to consult their people . . . However, the Kremlin did seem to be worried about the American people, feared we were too aroused, too angry, too willing to vote a big Air Force plus peacetime conscription.

Russia has the A-bomb. Definite information has been obtained (how cannot be told) that Russia has the A-bomb. It's crude, and only one or two have been made yet, but she has it . . . That's why top United States defense chiefs were in such a frenzy to get us prepared last winter. That's also why United States defense chiefs have figured Russia might strike most any time—before the Marshall Plan has a chance to win western Europe away from Russia completely.

Who Wrote the Note

School No. 1 was the United States military. They wanted the Russians to have a blunt, stiff warning, laid right on the line, that if the Red army became the aggressor in Europe, it meant war with the USA.

Historians have argued that if the Kaiser knew the invasion of Belgium meant war with England he would not have invaded; that if Hitler had known the invasion of Poland meant war with both England and the United States he would not have moved. Therefore, United States defense chiefs wanted the Russians to have it in cold words which they could understand—that we would resist with arms any act of aggression.

School No. 2 was the politicians. They had their eye on Henry Wallace, MacArthur and the accusations that Truman was a warmonger. MacArthur has been saying that we needed a President who could sit down and talk turkey with Stalin. This was resented around the White House and probably was one reason for Truman's denial—through Senator Tydings—that he ever had an invitation to meet with Stalin.

Actually, he had. The parley proposal came via Berlin and suggested a meeting in Stockholm. Truman, however, said no. Later when Walter Winchell, calling at the White House, urged Truman to get together with Stalin, the President replied: "I don't lick anybody's boots." Nevertheless, some of the men around Truman have felt he should make an overture to Stalin.

School No. 3 was the genuine peacemakers. Some State Department diplomats have sincerely believed in the Jimmie Byrnes theory of keeping up diplomatic talks even while we build up defenses; of displaying both the olive branch and the mailed fist—so Russia could not claim she had only one alternative.

Result of all this was a polyglot note that meant little. It carried the implied threat of war if the Red Army moved. It also carried an implied invitation to discuss our difficulties. Finally it went into a long tabulation of Russia's trrors—which, though true, only gave Molotov a marvelous excuse to come back with a long recitation of our alleged errors.

In brief, the note to Molotov had just about everything in it except the most important thing of all—namely, the fact that there is great longing in the hearts of the American people for peace, with an obviously equal longing in the hearts of the Russian people for peace. And if Stalin would lift the Iron Curtain, if he would permit the American and Russian people to get to know each other, to exchange books and newspapers, professors and students, churchmen and religious teaching, radio programs and moving pictures, then the people of the two countries would solve all their own problems through friendship, and the petty squabbling over who was right or wrong in Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Italy would become as unimportant as the ancient debate of how many angels can stand on the point of a needle.

Such a note should have been made public immediately—by us. Furthermore, millions of copies should have been dropped in every language of Europe, over every country of Europe, to show the American people's genuine desire for peace.

Open Diplomacy

Most amusing incident re the Molotov mess was State Department wailing over the fact that Molotov made the correspondence public. He had violated confidence, moaned the diplomats. However, good diplomacy is (1) the art of writing notes that react to your advantage if made public; and (2) making them public yourself.

If I could collect a dollar for every time the State Department itself jumped the gun on publication of a note, I'd make money. For instance, we had a firm agreement with the British that we would send no notes or statements re Palestine without consulting the British; following which Truman released a statement on Palestine on the eve of a Jewish holiday which had the British turning somersaults.

Diplomacy is partly the art of mobilizing public opinion, and Molotov saw a chance to mobilize it at the expense of our diplomatic bunglers. That's why the State Department wrung its hands.

Worth our while

Our private gain can never be . . . As great as what we give . . . Or anything we undertake . . . to help our neighbors live . . . Because the glory and the pride . . . Of personal success . . . Are never any guarantee . . . Of lasting happiness . . . But what we do for other folks . . . Is always worth our while . . . If only to behold the joy . . . Reflected by a smile . . . Each little act of charity . . . Is like another ray . . . Of all the sunshine that we need . . . To chase the clouds away . . . And when we think of others and . . . The weary path they plod . . . We hold a higher place in life . . . And in the eyes of God.

They first settled, they laid the foundations, they planned the growth, and through the years their wise heads and practiced hands have given us the prestige and affection all communities strive to achieve.

FOR the spirit and devotion of this group typify the feelings of our entire store community. We like you to visit us and to enjoy every minute of your stay. For your loyal patronage and recognition of all of us, are the highest rewards in retailing—the realization that we are pleasing you.
